HE PROTESTS

That His Intentions Are Strictly Honorable,

BUT THE WOMAN WRITES BACK "RATS,"

And That Will Do for an Answer to "San Francisco's" Highly Moral Alarms and Excursions.

WRITTEN FOR "THE TRIBUNE."

I was inexpressibly pained last Saturday to observe my old friend Edward Cahill's flippant criticism of my observations about the immodesty of Sybil Johnstone's performance of "Iza" in the Clemenceau Case. If it had been Editor Moffitt, who is an authority on shape and possesses one of his own, or Ed Clough or Ed Hamilton, the cynic, I would not have been surprised, but coming from Cahill the thing upset me.

My earliest recollections of Cahill are of a grave-faced, austere dragon of virtue, who used to frown on the boys in the old Press Club when they drank too much beer, and who first achieved fortune by winning the Record-Union's prize for the best Christmas story.

And mark you at that time the Record-Union was edited by an ex-street preacher and owned by a temperance lecturer, while its police news was expungated by Superintenden Woodson of the First Baptist Church Sunday School. I am certain they never would have accepted a story from anyone holding such sentiments as my old friend Cahill expressed about "Iza" and I last week.

But there, you never can tell what a gay life in Oakland will lead a man to!

Mr. Cahill said that apparently it had never occurred to me that if I thought "Iza" would shock me I was not compelled to go and see her.

That is the defense of the gambling house keeper and the person who sells pictures that give Mr. Bennett of the Society for the Elimination of Sex from Art a pang in the moral part of him, and should not be considered by one like myself, who is an humble worker in the field of virtue and only writes a letter in the hope that his words may turn the multitude to the contemplation of better things. Would the people permit gambling to flourish on the dealer's premise not to go out into the highways and drag young men into their games?

I think not.

Is "Iza" clothed and decent because you have to pay a dollar to go to see her and ten cents extra in the slot for a pair of opera glasses?

I trow not.

"Lead us not into temptation" was not thought sufficient, and so to the prayer was added, "deliver us from evil."

In all ages of the world it has been found necessary to taboo the means for the commission of vice as well as warn the people against vicious practices, and I would ask my critic to sketch for himself a picture of what San Francisco would be if our ladies were reduced to the level of the simple code of Japan, which regards any exhibition of what nature has made or the commission of any natural act in public as inoffensive and proper. If he did, I feel confident he would withdraw in horror from the contemplation of the work of his mind and hands.

Any exhibition that is liable to lead the youth of the country into evil ways is to be condemned, for though it may shock some it will tempt many more. Society has to frown down vice, not because it dislikes vice itself as because it fears the effect of evil influence on its children. More than half of the wickedness of this city is due to the failure of the law and society to punish those who set a bad example.

There is a man here with many millions who mourns the disgrace that one of his children has brought upon his family. She is a beautiful woman, bright, vivacious and witty. She had a lovely home, a good husband and an enviable position in society. A few days ago she stood on the corner of Kearny and Geary streets in such a condition that a policeman out of pity for the child that was with her, put her in a carriage and ordered her driven home. She was so drunk that she did not realize the disgrace of her condition, and when spoken to replied in the language of the gutter that she did not want to be interfered with. Her little girl cried and begged her to go home. Men and women passed by who knew her and turned away their heads for fear lest she might see that they recognized her. Half the city talked next day about the daughter of old ——, who was seen on the streets intoxicated. At a public ball a few nights later she was pointed out as Mrs. ——, who was drunk on the streets.

A friend spoke to her of the disgrace she had brought on her husband and father, for though the newspapers had concealed her name, it has no secret.

"My father!" she said bitterly, "he has no cause to complain, he taught me to drink and set me the example of getting drunk every night of his life."

There is a young lady here who is soon to be married and who is known everywhere by an abbreviation of her Christian name. You even see it printed that way. It was helping to conceal the infidelities of her mother that first suggested to her the possibility of indulging in affairs of her own. It is beyond dispute that the prevalence of immodest displays on the stage has had much to do with the prevalence of immorality in private life. The heroes of the stage are noted for the number of their conquests among the better class of women and the heroines of the stage are famous for their disregard of the seventh commandment. One theatrical man who just left town has been the husband of five wives and did not always wait for a divorce from one before he took another. In that respect and others he is a rival of Caurch, the matrimonial. His name is Stahl and he is seldom free from legal complications brought on by his relations with women. One of his latest was a Miss Bertie Crawford, now singing at the Bush-street Theater. She is a pleasing person with a voice as modest as her physical charms are prominent, and while at the Tivoli two years ago she married Stahl, who was then conductor of the orchestra. She soon found that Stahl was a very immoral man and as jealous of her as she had a right to be of him. They had a quarrel and she packed her trunks and skipped for the East. Before she had reached Chicago Stahl repented of having let her go and sent a telegram saying: "Come back, Bertie, and all will be forgotten and forgiven. Your loving Richard."

To this she sent a reply, the shortest one ever written by a woman. Here it is:

"To Richard Stahl:
Rats!
Bertie."

Bertie is now at the Bush with twenty other beauties, who wear tights and tie their sashes above the waist. She cannot sing and will not dance, but she indulges in a great deal of what she evidently believes to be soft, sensuous, languorous motion.

In this sort of things she has a pleasant rival at the California Theater, who enjoys the name of Mamie Cerbi and plays the soubrette's part, appearing as a page for the sake of her figure. It seems to please the public, does that same figure, though it is not in harmony with the lines of beauty as laid down by the Grecian sculptors. There is plenty of material there to make a first-class design, but it seems to have been laid on so thickly in some places that there was not enough to fill out the work all over and the worst of it is the young lady insists upon accentuating the parts already too prominent. But then it is a stage tradition that there has not been a really perfect figure in tights since poor Adelaide Neilsen died. All the soubrettes we have had here lately seem to have had for an instructor some one who had a faint idea and only a faint one, of the hula as she is danced in Hawaii, for they all made a specialty of the languorous motion said to be peculiar to that dance, which, by the way, is not a dance at all, but only a wriggle from the heels to the hips and back again. Carmencita and Otero gave a Spanish edition of the same sort of thing in New York and Templeton, Crawford, Corinne and Cerbi are all taking a leaf out of the book of Terpsichora.

The fact is the whole stage is going to the canines. The actors rant, the comedians clown and the women make flesh do the work of brains and voice. Theatrical managers are only janitors now and there is no school in which young people can learn how to act. The men are all music hall singers and the women would seem to have been at one time waitresses in dives, where they exposed their charms, as an advertisement for the sale of cider at champagne rates. The best show in San Francisco now is a farce by Gillette, that, by courtesy, is called a comedy. It is a rough copy of the French farce which deals in the fun that comes from suspecting the young man to be guilty of the immoralities committed by his intended father-in-law. It holds the mirror up to nature fairly well. The young girl who goes to see it can get quite a knowledge of life as it really is lived. On the stage she can see her father, mother, brother and sweetheart. She sees her father trying to be false to his marriage vows, beguiled by the beauty and wit of a comic opera actress. She sees her mother hunting through her father's clothes for evidences of his unworth, and she sees her lover with an "I-have-been-there-before-old man" air, helping her father keep the secret of his sin by taking the blame on his own shoulders, and in it all she sees the sort of a man she is going to marry and the kind of a life she is going to lead. It certainly is calculated to open her eyes if it does nothing else, and she wonders how her own father, mother and sweetheart who are at her side in the dress circle like the way they are being shown up, on the stage.

Perhaps, after all, Cahill is right and there is less harm in The Clemenceau Case as she is practiced. There the young girl can really see why vanity, if nothing else, induces women to wear skirts, for the average "Iza" is not lovely to look upon when you see all of her at once.

SAN FRANCISCO.

CONVERTS TO TEED.

Disciples of the Chicago Messiah in the "College of Life."

The disciples of the notorious Dr. Teed, the Chicago man who poses as the Chief Representative of God on Earth, are growing in numbers at the "College of Life," which has taken up new quarters at 220 Noe street, San Francisco. There are now about twenty resident members, and it is said that fully 100 respectable men and women of the neighborhood are adherents of the Messiah. Victor E. Schifferstein, the Olympic Club's champion long distance jumper and foot racer, is a convert, and a silver-voiced tenor has left the Hess Opera Company to enter the College. The residents of the house now include Mrs. Schuster, Miss Lillie Schuster, Mrs. Mary E. Knight, Mrs. Marston, Ivory Marston and others, who resided in Oakland. Members of the society are expected to believe that the world is a hollow sphere, and that we are living on the inside of the globe, not the outside; that the accepted theories of astronomy are all wrong; that by observing strictly certain "laws of life" human beings may be able to live forever in this world; that if celibacy were rigidly practiced, in time all births would be miraculous.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Frank Johnson Incurs the Displeasure of Judge Ogden.

John Kelly, William Coleman, Frank Johnson, John Lewis, George Lewis, and James Kelly were tried in the Police Court today for disturbing the peace at Mrs. Murphy's boarding house, at Seventh and Franklin streets. John Kelly and Coleman were found guilty and the others were acquitted.

During the proceedings, while Officer Aldrich was testifying, Johnson suddenly exclaimed, "You're committing perjury."

Justice Ogden immediately ordered Johnson arrested for contempt of court, and will sentence him on Tuesday.

MARRY, COME UP.

Why Woman is Not a Creature of Pure Reason.

THE BOSTON WOMAN AND THE INDIAN

The Untrousered Senator—Pope Joan as a Feminine Precedent — The Mother and the Parrot.

WRITTEN FOR "THE TRIBUNE."

In my younger days there was a song of great vogue in polite circles, "Why Don't the Men Propose?" a sort of musical wail of the wallflower. In time they grew tired of asking the question, lisped in numbers, it may be concluded, because it was never answered, at least in public. Now-a-days if one may believe the current philosophy, the shoe is on the other foot and the question is "Why don't the women marry?" Unlike the other question there are answers to this aplenty. The answers come to us in battalions, and they are for the most part grounded on the inferiority of the contemporary male. The learned editor of the Sacramento Record-Union bewails at considerable length the disposition of the girl of the period to engage in business avocations, which he contends rub off the fine "bloom of womanhood" and make her unfit to be the household slave of the "good old days." Last Sunday the ingenious Arthur McEwan told us in his pleasing fashion how the Clementina street girl earning her own living is not enamored of the corresponding young man, because she is tempered to finer issues, and in fine she does not want to be his drudge. Again comes Mrs. Kate Gannett Wells in the North American Review with a wheelbarrowful of reasons to account for the supposititious facts.

In view of all this alarming array of logic, masculine and feminine, and admitting freely the superiority of what is described as "the average woman," in tastes, training and education, to the man on the same social plane, it is worth while to inquire whether the premise from which they start is sound. If it be true that any large fraction of contemporary womankind declines to be married then there should be a noticeable decline of the marriage rate. Now the figures of Brother Porter's census so far as we have them, do not show any such decline and I do not believe that it exists. What becomes then of all this glittering array of sleek and prosperous reasons for woman's assumed unwillingness to marry? Well, then, they do not weigh the value of a pin's fee in the mind of man or woman, for marrying has little to to do with reason. If marrying and mating were governed by reason, then the human race would have been extinct a thousand years ago.

There comes a time in the life of every woman when the barriers of reason are swept away by passion and the noblest thing in the world is a grand passion. It supplies for a woman that concentration of effort which she otherwise lacks. It makes of a man a hero or a crank. The difference between the sexes has hitherto been that woman's only passion has been that of love, while man has thrown reason to the winds for a hundred different objects. Where is this feminine creature of pure reason? We know that a woman will marry a man whom she knows to be a drunkard, and here is Miss Elaine Goodale all the way from Boston, who writes poetry and things, about to marry a tame Sioux not distantly related to Kicking Bear.

What is pure reason as applied to life? Obviously, pure selfishness. Thus Mrs. Wells tells us that the assumed disinclination of the women of the more wealthy classes to marry is due to the fact that it takes "a great deal in ability and money to satisfy them," and the working woman, she says, "dreads man. She wants none of him. Her single independence is lonely, but not so aggravating as married subjection." This line of reasoning runs parallel with that of the man who argues that he has a more comfortable and better appointed home at his club than anything a wife could provide; that he does not care to be annoyed by squalling children; that the domestic warfare of the home destroys his digestion and his temper, and in fine, that the expenses of married life absorb three-fourths of an average income, all of which might otherwise be spent on himself. This is pure reason, and that is why marriages are made in heaven, Heaven knows why.

There is a certain clamorous tribe of women who assume to have put away from them altogether that quality which our rude forefathers were wont to recognize as "sweet feminine unreason," chiefly, I suspect, because it gave them a flattering sense of superiority, and these new women have learned how to translate into print that feminine sharpness of tongue and nimbleness of wit which from the beginning have driven barbs that rankle under the indurated hide of the Tyrant Man. So featly do they fulfil this function, that when in the newspaper office of the future an editorial hairpulling is to be done for the good of the loathsome contemporary, one may expect that the lady editor will be selected for the work, and the fighting editor will be stored away in the coal hole with the other rubbish. Some of these emancipated women are conducting an apostolic journal in a very high tone of voice, and they call it the Woman's Tribune. They had occasion recently to do up Senator Paddock of Nebraska because of some incautious words which he used in an absurd controversy over the Conger Lard bill with a certain Mrs. Annie L. Diggs of Kansas, and this is how they did it:

The point we have at issue with the Senator is his allusion to Mrs. Diggs as possibly belonging to a small class of women "who have unpetticoated themselves to engage in anarchistic and socialistic performances" why Mrs. Diggs should be anymore unpetticoated for her efforts for social and political changes than the Senator is untrowsered by his efforts to improve the meat and drink of the community, matters which, if there could be setup a division of labor, might well pertain to the sphere of women.

This is the story of "Mrs. Diggs' Revenge, or the Untrowsered Senator."

Nevertheless I find in the same paper an elaborate argument in favor of the admission of women to the Methodist pulpit founded on the legend of Pope Joan. After a long-winded argument to prove the quondam existence of this imaginary pontiff the lady concludes:

Especially should the Methodist women hold on to the memory of Pope Joan, who achieved so great a triumph by her piety and learning. For if a woman occupied for three years, with credit to herself and the church, this regal position, what can be more absurd than for so progressive a body as the Methodists claim to be, to refuse a lay woman the much lower privilege of attending a general conference as a delegate. It must of course be acknowledged that nineteenth century ideas of "piety" have changed considerably from those popular in the ninth, and no pious woman of this day, even in zeal to serve her church, could follow Joan's example in taking such an office surreptitiously. But as a precedent, she is altogether too precious to be lightly dispensed with.

Yes, dear, but if there is such pressing need of precedents of this sort why not invent some more and bolster up your courage to cherish them with the same fortitude. You call to mind the old lady to whom the thought of hell was very dear, because it was such "an elegant place for her husband's relatives." Yet I hasten to disavow any objection to women in the pulpit lest the fate of Senator Faddock be mine. I would just as soon hear a woman preach as a man and I repudiate with emphasis the sentiments of Dr. Johnson—since deceased—who said: "Sir, a woman's preaching is like a dog walking on its hind legs; it is not done well and you are surprised to see it done at all."

A dead man needs no trousers.

Therefore, good brothers and bad, be not alarmed lest peradventure there will be no more wiving because the ladies are prepared to meet us at the bar, or in the pulpit, or over the pillbox—are, in fact, prepared to assume the trousers, even if Mr. Paddock must go unbreeched, because in those days you will have what the poet calls "a soft snap," for the noblest work of of woman is a well fatted husband. She will need you just the same, and she will not boss you one jot the more. A story, not my story, but that of some other ribald jester:

"Edward, Edward, where is mother and the bird?"

There was a rush of passengers for a moment, and then Edward hove in sight. He was a short man, with a resigned expression and two shawl straps.

"Edward," she repeated anxiously, "where is mother and the bird?"

"I don't know," he said, tucking two umbrellas and the field glass under his arm and letting go the off shawl strap to get a better grip. "Don't worry, Caroline. After a seven years' acquaintance with your mother, I feel that she is competent to take care of herself and every bird in America, from a canary to a buzzard."

TO INCORPORATE A CLUB.

A Special Meeting of the Reliance Club for That Purpose,

The Coming Exhibition — Jackson and Godfrey and McLeod and Miehling.

The Reliance Athletic Club has decided to incorporate, and in order to accomplish this a special meeting of the members of the club has been called for Thursday evening. In order to take these steps it will be necessary that there should be a clear majority of the members present to vote on the question, and it will be necessary to have 200 members there in consequence. The directors have decided to hold the meeting just prior to the exhibition on Thursday evening and the members should be present early in order that the entertainment be not delayed. The programme for the gentlemen's night will be unusually good and the programme will be carried out without fail. Peter Jackson has promised not to disappoint the club this time, and he will spar with George Godfrey, now training to fight Jake Kilrain.

McLeod and Miehling will wrestle. McLeod is now matched with Acton.

Some of the [illegible] boys will take part in this entertainment.

Hereafter only members will be admitted to the entertainments.

Applications posted at the time of exhibition will entitle the applicant to admission.

ANOTHER FLOOD

Is Coming Booming Down the Valley of the Ohio.

Tremendous Rise in the Water Level at Cincinnati—The Damage at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, February 21.—Another flood in Ohio Valley is expected, as the rain has been falling all day, with no indications of clearing weather. The Monongahela and Allegheny rivers are again rising. The damage done by the flood in this section is not yet figured up, but it is safe to say that it will reach many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

THE FIELD OF SPORT.

A Claim that the Mitchell-La Blanche Fight Was Not on the Square.

The ending of the Mitchell-La Blanche fight at the California Club last night was not satisfactory to the members. Up to the twelfth round it was a very pretty fight and Mitchell apparently had the best of the contest. In this round La Blanche went down from a blow under the ear and remained down until he was counted out. It was claimed that it was a case of fake on his part and he was hooted as he left the ring. Mitchell declared that he had fought fairly and is entitled to the victory. He asserted that certain Directors of the Club got in at the wrong end of the pools and they wanted the fight declared a draw so that they could pull out even. The Directors of the Club held a meeting after the fight and decided not to give a decision until next Monday.

The Oakland Football Club will attempt to beat the High School Club next Monday afternoon. The game will be played at the Alameda grounds, commencing at 2 o'clock.

Blind and Insane.

George Johnson, who has been an inmate of the Home for Adult Blind, was brought to the County Jail yesterday to be examined as to his sanity. The mania appeared only a few days ago.

Typhoid Fever.

A case of typhoid fever at 545 Thirty-fourth street was reported to the Health Office today.

LOBBYIST CHOICE.

He Quits Like a Steer When Faced by Camron.

THE ELECTRIC BILLS FINALLY PASSED.

Choice's Rank Bluff — McCall as a Speaker—The County Division Bill. Personal.

[From our Special Correspondent.]

SACRAMENTO, February 21, 1891.

The famous boodle investigation has come to a close. John Choice, lobbyist, is left in a bad way, but beyond this the investigation developed little or nothing. Choice is a quitter. When he first appeared before the committee he was quite positive he had never had any talk whatever with Mr. Camron at the Golden Eagle Hotel, and was absolutely certain he had not said a word at any time about thirty legislators who met in fine rooms two blocks up the street. But when he was brought face to face with his accusers he went to pieces. Camron, Towle and Spear positively identified him as the man who called Camron aside at the foot of the Golden Eagle stairs. Then he was called to the stand and asked to say definitely whether he had made the statement attributed to him or not.

"I don't think so," he replied feebly.

"Do you know?" asked Chairman Gould with emphasis.

"I have no recollection of such conversation. I couldn't have had it, for there was no such thing as the thirty waiting Legislators."

"But did you or did you not make such statements?" persisted Mr. Gould.

"I don't remember making any such statements."

This shifty way of answering angered Mr. Gould and he broke out hotly: "Mr. Choice, this is trifling with the committee! It is preposterous for you to sit here and say that you do not know whether or not you made the statements attributed to you."

"I think this is a serious matter," interrupted the fidgety lobbyist. "I can't tell definitely about all my conversations."

"So do I think it is a serious matter," replied the chairman. "Can't you tell whether or not you offered to sell the votes of thirty members of the Legislature?"

"Well, if you had been up night after night, with a great deal of sickness in your family, you might not be able to remember all your conversations definitely."

"I'd know whether I offered to sell the votes of Legislators!"

Mr. Camron here took the stand. He was as positive as Choice had been uncertain. He traced his movements minute by minute from the time he left Oakland for a visit to the Capitol until his return home. "On the morning of January 28th I left my room at the Golden Eagle Hotel at 8 o'clock," said Mr. Camron. "After breakfast, at about 9 o'clock, I strolled to the bar. There a lobbyist warned me what was necessary to be done for the Electric Road bills. I came back to the foot of the staircase, where Mr. Towle and Mr. Spear were talking together. There that man [pointing his finger at Choice] called me aside and told me what I previously testified to. At about 2 o'clock that afternoon that man Choice came to me again within ten feet of the spot where we held our first conversation. 'I want to tell you something more,' he said. 'That bill of your's is all right. It's going through.' I think he also said, 'Pali Critamius is going to get in on it.' Then he continued: 'There's another thing I want to tell you. Hale's beaten.' One day in Oakland I saw Mr. Hale and said to him, 'There's a fellow up at Sacramento named Green, I think, (just as I said here I at first thought this man's name was Green) who says you are beaten.' Mr. Hale laughed and replied, 'I suppose he wants me to bring up the sack.' Afterward Mr. Hale told me, 'That man Choice has been to Colonel L. L. Bromwell and wanted him to see you and square things.'"

"Did you have two conversations with me?" asked Choice at this juncture,

"I did!" replied Camron firmly.

"You are mistaken," replied the lobbyist.

"Furthermore," returned Camron, "I never had a conversation with you in the Capitol building, as you have stated. The only conversations I had with you during my entire stay in Sacramento, were those at the Golden Eagle?"

"Did you not have a talk with me in the lobby?"

"No!"

"You certainly did!"

The affirmations and denials were called off by the committee. Then Choice made a bluff. He said he expected to summon witnesses to prove an alibi—that he was not in Sacramento at the time Camron said the conversations were held. He could not give the names of these witnesses, but could point them out. Three of them were in Sacramento, he said, and one in San Francisco. He had been told that the Sergeant-at-Arms had sent for the one in the metropolis.

"I don't want the committee to take a close judgment on me," he whined. "My witnesses are not here."

"We will give you plenty of opportunity to get your witnesses," said Chairman Gould. "But what do you expect to prove?"

"That I could not have held the conversations stated, because I was not here at the time."

"Then, you want to prove by others what you don't know yourself?" said Mr. Murphy of the committee. "You do not deny that you held this principal conversation with Mr. Camron. In fact, you tacitly admit it. So I don't see that there is anything for you to prove, or any necessity for wasting further time."

"Perhaps it would be just as well to let it go," said Choice then, coming down from his bluff. "It really seems to be nothing more than a difference of opinion between Mr. Camron and myself."

With that the interrogation closed. Choice's reticence is accounted for the fact that the committee has power to prosecute for perjury. He was too smart to put himself in a hole where the cold rocks of the law could be rolled down on him. The committee will make its report on Tuesday next.

Senator Dargie yesterday introduced a bill prepared by John Yule at the request of the Fabiola Hospital Association. This bill permits societies and corporations organized for purposes other than profit to prevent voting by proxy at their meetings and elections. The reason for the bill is that scheming persons, desiring to carry through some debatable measure, may manage to do so by obtaining the proxies of life members of the societies who have moved away or lost their interest.

McCall and the delegation yesterday got the so-called Powell bill, defining the duties of the City Council and the Board of Public Works through the Lower House without a dissenting vote. McCall also presided over the deliberations of the House for a time when Speaker Coombs was absent. He is more of a success as a worker than as a Speaker, however.

Yesterday afternoon Senator Dargie got up the Electric Road bills in the Senate and had them passed under the urgency rule. On account of Attorney-General Hart's opinion that the committee amendment excluding San Francisco from the provisions of the bill was unconstitutional, Senator Dargie obtained the consent of the committee to a withdrawal of all the amendments. Then he worked among the Senators and obtained their consent to making the bills a matter of urgency and pushed right through. So when the bills came up there was almost no opposition. The amendments were withdrawn and the two bills read the second and third times and passed by almost unanimous votes. Campbell of Solano and Vorhees voted against one bill and Vorhees stood alone in his opposition to the other. The Matthews Assembly bill regarding different lines of street railroads on the same tracks was passed at the same time. All three bills now await the signature of the Governor.

The Assembly put two big fights over on the Senate today by passing, without material opposition, the Glenn County Division bill and the San Jacinto County Division bill. "The Senate always gets in on all the boodle!" was the plaint of a lobbyist when he saw the bills go over. The Senate passed to third reading, after a sharp contest, old Dennis Jordan's old claim, as it came from the Assembly, cut from $110,000 to $79,000. From the vote on the question of whether or not the bill should go to third reading, it is certain that for the third time the claim will go to the Governor. Bartlett vetoed it; Waterman pocketed it. Now, what will Markham do?

Postmaster A. W. Bishop and Warden W. E. Hale are among the Oakland visitors. Mr. Bishop is interested in a bill placing all assessment life insurance companies under the control of the Insurance Commissioners. This bill was amended in the Senate yesterday, and passed to a third reading. Its tendency is to do away with the fraudulent organizations which have recently sprung up in the State and caused so much trouble.

Yesterday was the Legislature's busy day. Both Houses sat until midnight, and ground out a great deal of business. Then an adjournment was taken until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. HAMILTON.

DERVISHES HOWL.

For They Got a Round Sound Licking at Afafite.

A Desperate Hand to Hand Bayonet to Spear Fight—One Thousand Dervishes Slain.

AFAFITE, Egypt, via Suakim, February 21.—A severe engagement was fought at Tokar on February 19th between the Egyptian troops and Osman Digma's forces. Nearly 1000 lives were lost. The Egyptians made an advance from Afafite during the early dawn on Thursday. The enemy was sighted near Tokar and after an exchange of shots between skirmishers the Egyptians pushed forward through the brush wood to seize the old government building, a tumble down ruin which forms a strategic point where infantry could hold out against heavy odds. The Dervishes, seeing the object of the Egyptian advance, made a rush for the building, surrounding it by a compact mass of Arab riflemen, who poured a hot fire into the ranks of the advancing Egyptians, the latter returning the fire as they advanced. The Egyptians fixed bayonets when within easy distance of the enemy and charged. For over an hour a desperate hand to hand, bayonet to spear and sword fight followed. Finally the Egyptian cavalry made a brilliant charge upon the Dervishes, who retired in disorder, suffering a crushing defeat. The Dervishes numbered at least 2000 fighting men, about equal to the force of the Egyptians. After the retreat of the Dervishes the troops found over 700 dead around the position mentioned, while large numbers of dead were lying in the bushes around the buildings. Nearly every Emir of importance present fell upon the field. Osman Digma did not take part in the fight, but watched its progress from a point of vantage near Afafite. After seeing his followers had suffered a disastrous defeat Osman Digma, accompanied by about thirty horsemen, fled towards Temrin. The Egyptians will advance on Temrin tomorrow.

A LANGUID WAR.

More Maneuvering Than Fighting Going on in Chili.

Valparaiso is not Blockaded, but the Rebel Men-of-War are Making Their Presence Felt.

BUENOS AYRES, February 21.—A dispatch received here from Valparaiso says that a Government steamer has arrived there from Arica, a maritime town in the Province of Tarapaca, where she landed troops. The steamer was pursued by the rebel ships Huascar and Esmeralda, and had a narrow escape from being captured. The insurgents have captured the steamer Cousing, and three regiments have been sent to protect Tacna. The Government is sending fresh troops to recapture Pisagua. The latest news received from the rebel's squadron is that the insurgent vessels are scattered along the coast, but Valparaiso is not in a state of blockade.

PIG STICKING.

What an Oaklander Saw in the Chicago Yards.

THE INFERIOR STREET CAR SERVICE.

Some Huge Business Blocks—A Pig-Sticker's Big Wages—The Chicago Women do Not Compare.

WRITTEN FOR "THE TRIBUNE."

CHICAGO, February 17, 1891.

The city of Chicago is a forcible example of what consolidation will do. The city has spread itself until it now covers a territory about as large as Alameda county that is 24½ miles long by 14 miles wide. No wonder she is the second city in the Union. The above contains a gentle hint to the people of Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda. If they are wise in their generation, they will vote for consolidation, and immediately bring their city up to the 100,000 rank. Then, when speaking of Oakland, a Californian will not be obliged to designate the State, as there will be only one Oakland worthy of the name of "city." Outside of the many advantages which will accrue from a consolidation of interests and governments, a feeling of pride ought to impel our people to make a name for themselves and emerge from the obscurity which surrounds them at present. It would be a better advertisement of Oakland than anything else our citizens could do. Here, in Chicago, the people, one and all, boast of this city after the fashion of the early Romans. At the banquet given by the Marquette Club of Chicago last night in honor of the birthday of Lincoln the speakers all appealed to the members to stand by their city, and do their utmost to push Chicago on in the path of progress and prosperity.

Chicago is undoubtedly the cap-sheaf of American civilization. Her business men are merchants in the true sense of the word and by their pluck and enterprise will no doubt succeed in making Chicago the wealthiest city in the land.

Nowhere else can be found such a large number of magnificent business blocks. A ten-story building is not thought worthy of mention. On all sides we see twelve, fourteen and sixteen-story structures built of granite, brick, iron and stone. A dozen or more even larger buildings are now in process of erection. The "Rookery" is a triumph of architecture, but hardly any more so than the Chamber of Commerce building, which is nearing completion. The Auditorium is simply beyond description and no one unacquainted with Chicago can get an adequate idea of the interior finish from a pen sketch. In the floors, alone, there are over 50,000,000 pieces of colored marble, all put in by hand. Mexican onyx and highly polished marble enter into the finish of the walls, casements and ceilings. The theatre contains seats for 5960 people, and will hold 8000. De Witt Talmage filled it the other night on the occasion of his lecture. The main building is ten stories high and the tower extends another ten stories, making it 270 feet high. It is the highest building in Chicago, and were it not for the cloud of smoke which at all times completely envelopes the city, one could get a good view of the surroundings. Chicago suffers the penalty of greatness. The manufacturing establishments cause the vast volume of smoke and soot, which makes this one of the dirtiest cities in the country. One's linen does not retain its immaculate appearance more than an hour, as the soot and dirt find a lodging place without difficulty.

San Francisco is far ahead of Chicago in street car facilities. With the aid of a few electric roads San Francisco should lead all other cities.

St. Louis is fortunate in having a great number of electric roads, which transport passengers rapidly and noiselessly. The Lindell electric road is the finest road in the city. Its poles are in the center of the street, with iron arms extending over the tracks on either side.

Chicago is dependent upon two men for its transportation facilities. Yerkes is the cable magnate of the city, although Wheeler on the south and west side has quite a system. The people are continually complaining about poor service. They even appeal to the courts. Mr. Yerkes was fined $25 in the Police Court this week for failing to have a fire in one of his street cars. In most cars there is a stove under the floor, which serves to keep the car comfortable. The principal complaint is lack of cars, but Mr. Yerkes turns a deaf ear to all appeals. A lot of dirtier, noisier, and fouler-smelling cars were never seen before. Three and four cars are run together as a train and make a deafening noise. Old horse cars that should have been out of service years ago are still utilized for transportation of passengers on all lines.

After business hours there is a rush for the cable cars, but only those who are experts, and who can hang on by their eyelids, have a ghost of a show to ride. Men and women are compelled to wait their opportunity for a ride for twenty and thirty minutes. We do things better in San Francisco.

After a close study of the faces of Chicago women. I have concluded that they are not in it with the fair sex of San Francisco. It is not their fault though. The hard climate is very severe on complexions, and on days when Boreas comes to town red noses predominate. You know, a woman with a red nose is not a pretty object by any means.

No visitor leaves Chicago before doing the Union Stock Yards. It is quite the proper thing, you know. The prima donna Patti, and other artists of note, have been escorted through the yards, and seemed to enjoy the pig-sticking not a little.

Had the pleasure of visiting Armour's immense establishment. Was first conducted to a place overlooking the pig pen. Was greeted by a succession of yells and squeals in the key of A minor, the interpretation of which would, no doubt, be an appeal for mercy.

In the midst of a pen, surrounded by hogs, stands a man with iron chains in his hand. He fastens a chain to the hind leg of a porker and up it goes to an overhead inclined railroad. A wheel fastened to the chain is fitted to the incline, and down piggy goes toward the pit at end of the room. About half way an individual covered with blood and holding a keen blade in his hand awaits the victim, and with one plunge severs the arteries in the throat, and his pigship continues to slide. As many as thirty a minute are treated in this manner. At the further end of the inclined road there is a large trough of boiling water and lime. The hogs are dropped in one by one and forced through to the scraping machines, which consist of a revolving plane, over which are brushes set at different angles. These remove nearly every particle of hair. What is left is quickly removed by men as the animal comes out of the machine, looking as white as snow. Other processes are gone through with and in fifteen minutes from the time the chain is fastened to the pig's foot, he is hanging up in the infrigorator room. The next day he is converted into spare ribs, shoulders, sides of bacon, ham and sausages. They tell the story that hogs are sometimes run through so fast that they are on the chopping block before life was fairly departed. One pig sticker gets twelve dollars a day for five hours work. His coachman drives up to Armour's every day with him, and he divests himself of his fine garments and dons the working clothes. At night he once more puts on his stylish clothes and is driven home.

The cattle department presents a somewhat different appearance. One cannot feel very deeply for the hogs, but with a fine looking Jersey it is different.

A wily old ox is trained to lead the unsuspecting cattle to their doom. When everything is in readiness to drive up a fresh lot to the slaughter pens, the ox walks up to the gate and as soon as the bars are up, he makes straightway for the fatal pens. Trusting to his leadership the innocents follow unhesitatingly. Just before reaching the enclosure the ox steps aside and allows the cattle to pass by. He then walks back to his stall as unconscious as possible, while the other poor brutes are forced one by one into stalls and the doors closed behind them. A man with a long sledge-hammer walks along a passage way over the stalls and deals death to the steers with a blow on the forehead. It sometimes requires two blows to make the animal drop. A chain is attached to the hind legs and at a signal up they go in the air. A bloody individual comes along and completes the killing by plunging a long blade into the throat. The blood flows in torrents into a trough which carries it away to a room, where it is compressed and made into fertilizers. Dozens of carcasses are undergoing the various processes at the same time. It requires but a few minutes to remove the hide and complete the other necessary arrangements. Then the beef is sent to the refrigerator in quarters.

The Mt. Carmel flying machine, over which there has been so much talk, is now on exhibition. It is simply a hydrogen bag with a propeller attached. The affair has not sufficient buoyancy to even sustain the weight of the storage batteries which furnish the power for revolving the propeller, so they are placed on the floor. A light wire is used for carrying the electricity to the fan. In the still air of the Exposition building the revolution of the propeller causes the machine to circle around as far as the wire will allow it to go. It resembles a large moth more than anything else. The inventor's opinion to the contrary, the flying machine question has not been solved.

J. E. MORRIS.

RODGERS NOT GUILTY.

Judge Ogden in Further Consid[illegible]ion Acquits the Jeweler.

T. J. Rodgers, the young man charged with stealing an opal that he had left with a jeweler named Lewis, this morning produced a number of witnesses as to his good reputation. Among those who testified were J. S. Derby of the East Oakland Tannery, Steffanoni, the jeweler, and Mr. O'Keefe, and they all said that Rodgers has a good reputation, and that they had never heard anything against him.

In deciding the case Judge Ogden said that the prosecuting testimony had been very convicting, but he had known cases where such evidence had afterwards proved to be misjudged. There was, therefore, a doubt in favor of the defendant, and in view of the good record given of him he would of course give him the full benefit of the doubt, especially as a conviction would mar his whole future. The defendant was therefore discharged.

There was considerable applause in the lobby when the decision was announced.

THE POKER GAME AFFAIR.

The Case Again Postponed—It Will Be Heard Next Saturday.

This was the day set for the trial of Hirshberg & Quigley charged, on complaint of E. T. Burnette, with selling liquor without a licence during the progress of a poker game behind their cigar store and of course there was present in the Police Court a crowd of people interested. Once again, though, they were disappointed, for the statement was made to the court that City Attorney Johnson, who appears for the prosecution, was detained by sickness in his family. The case, therefore, went over to Saturday next.

The Burglars Make a Trip to Seventh and Peralta Streets.

Burglars made an attempt last night to enter the grocery store of Eiben & Noy on Seventh and Peralta streets. The tried the windows and then endeavored to cut through the door, but their work was in vain for they were scared away before they could effect an entrance.

The police as usual denied all knowledge of the affair, though the report of it was in their clip locker, read and filed, when the reporter questioned them.

THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE MEETING.

M. D. Hyde Proposes That the Central Club Indorse the Candidacy of M. C. Chapman.

At the adjourned meeting of the Republican City Central Committee last night, on motion of Fred A. Campbell, the words "and live in the precinct" were added to the test adopted at the previous meeting to be taken by those who vote at the primary election. Mr. Campbell then suggested that each precinct have a polling place, but Harry Dewall said he preferred to have but one polling place in the Fifth ward.

Chairman Whitney distributed what copies of the Great Register he had been able to obtain, and handed one to Fred Campbell for the annexed territory of the Second ward. Mr. Campbell thought it useless, as the Superior Court had decided the territory not a part of Oakland.

Justice Snook, however, said if the people there want to vote they should be given an opportunity to do so.

Mr. Campbell said "All right, if they want to walk over to Telegraph avenue they can vote, I suppose."

The Committeemen were prepared to fix only a few polling places. The following were handed in:

The polling place of the First ward will be 1564 Seventh street. Inspector, J. Jeffrays; Judge, John Vonversten; W. H. Sisdendorff, Clerk.

Second ward—First precinct, 1772 Telegraph avenue; Inspector, J. L. Bromley; Judge, F. S. Monroe; Clerk, Charles Knox. Second precinct, northeast corner of San Pablo avenue and Twenty-seventh streets; Inspector, C. Harkinson; Judge, J. C. Adney; Clerk, J. C. Coolidge.

Fifth ward—First precinct, City Hall; Inspector, E. L. Johnson; Judge, W. M. Allen; Clerk, W. Jenkins. Second precinct, Fourteenth and Webster streets; Inspector, H. Merritt; Judge, P. Beach; Clerk, H. C. McEwen.

The list is to be completed for publication next Wednesday. The committee adjourned to next Tuesday at 7:30 P. M.

THE CENTRAL CLUB.

M. D. Hyde's Resolution to Support M. C. Chapman for Mayor.

The Central Republican Club, which is composed of members of the Army and Navy Republican League and other Republicans of Oakland who desire to belong, held a spirited meeting at Dania Hall, corner of Eighth street and Broadway, last night. The meeting was fairly attended and much interest was taken in the proceedings. An effort was made to endorse the candidacy of M. C. Chapman for Mayor, and after an expression of opinion from the members the matter was postponed one week.

J. A. Underwood, chairman of the club, called the meeting to order and asked the members to make any suggestions under the head of new business.

M. D. Hyde came to the front at once with a proposition that provoked considerable friendly discussion. He stated that he would like to speak on the subject of the action the club should take at the coming primaries. "We know what action we shall take at the election," said Mr. Hyde. "We shall vote for the nominees of the Republican party. There can be no doubt about that. We as a political club, the only political club I might say, should look to the selection of delegates who favor a Mayor who is favorable to us, and to whom we are favorable. We want a man we can elect; a man of ability and integrity, and who is energetic. This club does not want any other kind of a man. We might go into the ranks of this club and find such a man. But we did not organize for the purpose of advancing the interests of any member. We organized for the purpose of advancing the interests of the city. It is my plan to get out and see elected delegates who will vote for the best man for Oakland. In the whole list of those who have been mentioned for Mayor I have selected the name of M. C. Chapman as being the man most eminently fitted for that position. He is too well known for it to be necessary for me to praise him. He has been a member of the Legislature and not one word has ever been said against his record. Mr. Chairman, I move you that it is the sense of this club that we recommend to the Republicans of Oakland the name of M. C. Chapman for Mayor, and if they give him the nomination we will get out individually and as a club work for his election.

Elliott Scott lost no time in seconding the motion, and the subject was fairly placed before the members.

A. O. Clark was a little doubtful as to the effect the motion would have, and suggested that he would like to hear the subject discussed by the members.

H. S. Smith of the Fourth ward remarked that he had been with Mr. Hyde on former occasions, but he was compelled to differ with him this time for reasons of his own and he hoped the motion would not prevail. "Mr. Hyde says that now is the time for us to show our hand. I object to that, and say that we are not in favor of anybody. We organized for the purpose of assisting the City Central Committee and we are working for the interests of the city and the good of the party. I am a Republican first, last and all the time. I am not a bolter. I do not purpose to tread on the corns of any man who differs from me. If you wish to see Mr. Chapman elected it may be better not to pass that motion. People have asked me what this club has been organized for. I say to them come up and see. We are not working in the dark. Our doors are open. The idea has gone forth that we are opposed to boss rule. We have had no shenanagan or working in the dark. If we pass that motion outsiders will say that there has been work done in the dark. I consider that we are a little ahead of time."

A. O. Clark said that the views expressed by Mr. Smith are his views. "If we go to work and recommend Mr. Chapman we will hurt him. I am not in favor of the motion and hope it will lay over for one week. We have plenty of time; the slate is pretty nearly all fixed."

E. S. Strong remarked that he is in favor of Mr. Hyde's motion. "If this motion would hurt Mr. Chapman I would walk downstairs too quick, because I am a Chapman man. This motion is, as I understand it, simply a suggestion. I think Mr. Hyde is acting proper and right. I don't think Mr. Smith is right about it, although he may feel right. We do not intend to tread on any man's toes. I hope Mr. Hyde's motion will prevail."

L. J. Rector remarked that he differed from Mr. Hyde for reasons of his own. "This is my first appearance at this club. I understand it this is a Central Republican Club, which [illegible] states that all [illegible] in its proceedings. It strikes me that if we recommend, or endorse, or promote the interests of any man it will handicap us in our work hereafter. Prominent men have been mentioned for the office of Mayor, and they have friends. Just as soon as we recommend any candidate we are antagonizing those friends. Primaries are supposed to be formed by the people. It is said that States are made when two tickets are up it is said that a job has been put up. This club wants to avoid that. As a Republican standing here in a Central Republican Club, I would suggest that we should not handicap ourselves by recommending any candidate. There are three or four candidates and we don't want to antagonize any portion of the city. We have been unfortunate in losing two or three Mayors. Mr. Hyde, I might say, is a pusher, but I think his motion is a little bit too hasty."

James Miller, of East Oakland, was called upon to give his views on the subject. "I don't know as I will give my views tonight," said Mr. Miller. "I have reasons which I do not want to go into the papers and go broadcast over the city which might destroy this little institution. I am a friend of Mr. Chapman and will do all in my power for him whether any action is taken here tonight."

J. W. Morris said that he is as much a friend of Mr. Chapman as any man in the room. He thought the motion a little premature, and he thought it would be better to put it off a little while.

J. A. Underwood vacated the chair in favor of Jacob Winkler, and then made a little speech. "We may be a little hasty," said Mr. Underwood, "but perhaps it may be well to have this matter discussed. Our doors here are open to every citizen in Oakland. We are true Republicans from the word go. Those here must know what part we are to take in the coming campaign. If we have any candidates to put before the convention, it is well to discuss them a week or two beforehand. Mr. Hyde simply desires to recommend Mr. Chapman. In the First ward we have had one and two and sometimes three tickets at the primaries. We have to break up these factions in the wards. We want every man to get down to work and clean out the city and have a strict Republican rule, which we haven't had for twelve years. Heretofore two men have carried delegations into conventions. We purpose that the citizens shall have something to say about the delegates. It is but right. The ticket of two years ago was a lesson to the Republican party. We are not putting up a job on anybody. This is the state today. When the proper time comes we can wave one hand and carry this thing to victory."

L. J. Rector made an amendment to Mr. Hyde's motion, to the effect that the matter be postponed one week.

Mr. Hyde seconded the motion. "I second the motion because I do not desire to force an issue. From what has been said here I think we are unanimous in nominating Mr. Chapman. We have had as good an expression of opinion as though we had taken a vote. Knowing that there will be no change in opinion, I hope my motion will go over one week."

Mr. Rector said that he understood that a committee had been appointed to work in each ward. He desired to know their duties.

Jacob Winkler informed him that their duties were to lend a helping hand to get good men to come before the people. They are to make themselves generally useful.

Mr. Hyde explained registration matters, and the meeting then adjourned for one week.

Army and Navy League.

The Army and Navy Republican League held a short meeting last night. H. T. Smith presided.

On motion of M. D. Hyde, the election of Delegates to the annual State Encampment was postponed two weeks.

The meeting then adjourned to give way to the Central Republican Club, which met at the same hall.

THE PASSING SHOW.

Lotta's Manager Did Not Escort the Star Home.

THE BOOKINGS AT THE LOCAL THEATER.

Corinne Next Monday and Tuesday. The San Francisco Play Houses. Notes.

When Lotta, our own California Lotta, was here a few days ago, she neglected all her old friends, as described in "Talk of the Town" in THE TRIBUNE a few days ago, paid no attention to their cards, and was "not able to be seen" when they called, and also she had a fight with her manager, because he was not on hand to escort her from the theatre to the hotel one evening after the performance. So strained were the relations that she would not communicate through him with the local manager, Mr. Mothersole, and that is the reason that Mr. Mothersole has Lotta M. Crabtree's own autograph to a note on Galindo Hotel paper, asking him to oblige "one who is just recovering from a severe cold" by having the theater warmed for rehearsal at 10 A.M. Managers of women stars have a bed of tacks.

The child star, Corinne, 17 in years, plump in figure, singer and actress, is coming hither at the beginning of next week. At the Oakland Theater on Monday she will play the burlesque Carmen and on Tuesday will play Monte Cristo Jr. This well-advertised young lady made her greatest success in the East in Monte Cristo Jr., but on this coast, with a way of their own, the people prefer Carmen, in which Corinne dances the Carmencita dances with extraordinary grace and skill. Corinne is an ardent actress and plays with nerve. In her company considerable attention is given to spectacle, and the chorus contains many fine figures. In every detail as to scenery and properties, the burlesques will be given here as in the Bush Street Theater, San Francisco. Among Corinne's company is Bertie Crawford, one of the wives of Richard Stahl. She was formerly prima donna at the San Francisco Tivoli. Miss Helen Harrington, who is also well known on this coast; Bernard Dyllyn, a graduate from San Francisco; James Sturges, formerly a comedian of the Alice Oates Company and Charles Fostelle, who once starred as "Mrs. Partington," are also members of the company gathered by Mrs. Kimball to support her daughter Corinne.

Mr. Mothersole has made a good beginning in booking companies for the Oakland Theater. He has secured all the companies now in San Francisco and has arranged many dates ahead. After Corinne the next attraction will be The Clemenceau Case with Miss Sybil Johnstone as "Iza." This is booked for Monday and Tuesday evenings, March 2d and 3d. The Sea King will be played March 4th and 5th. Mario Wainwright will occupy the theater on March 9th, 10th and 11th, and soon after that will come the favorite All the Comforts of Home by the company now playing at the Baldwin Theater, San Francisco.

From the troubles of the Hess Opera Company in San Francisco possibly no fulfillment of the arrangement to have that excellent company here may be possible.

The last performance of Ole Olson will be given this evening at the Oakland Theater. This is a farce of the rollicking kind, sharing with considerable humor and ample exaggeration the experiences in this country of a green Swedish immigrant. Songs and dances add to the life of the farce and the audience assembled last evening enjoyed a hearty laugh at the funny selections, the strange dialect and the fun in the lines. Ole Olson will be at the Alcazar Theater, San Francisco, next week.

At the San Francisco theaters next week will show several changes.

Two full weeks have passed since the first production at the Baldwin Theater of Gillette's comedy, All the Comforts of Home, by Charles Frohman's most artistic company of players. Next week will be devoted to the same play and worthily so. This clean, bright comedy, played by thorough actors, gives a most delicious light entertainment, much of the same kind as was supplied by Gillette's other comedy, The Private Secretary, which has been esteemed as the best of modern comedies.

Tomorrow evening will be given at the California Theater the last performance by the Gilmore Opera Company of Stahl's Sea King. The announcement for next week is Marie Wainwright in her gayeons production of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night.

At the Bush Street Theater next week The Clemenceau Case, the Corinne engagement ending tomorrow evening.

Adelaide Moore, the English actress who played Juliet here recently, has ended her tour and disbanded. Rheumatism of the heart is said to afflict this gifted actress.

W. H. Gillette, author of The Private Secretary and All the Comforts of Home, has written a new comedy, Wilkinson's Widow.

The manuscript of Sardou's Thermidor, as well as the models for that play, which were built under Sardou's instructions, have arrived in New York, and the production to be made by Charles Frohman will be the same as that given in Paris. The next production of the piece will be in Berlin the week of March 21st by the Theatre Francais company.

Richard Mansfield has written a letter to the press in which he says: "Perhaps this may be my last season on the stage. I love the art but the profession is detestable. I think I shall go back to my canvas and brushes. Nobody would be the loser, and shall be the gainer in peace and happiness, and I may allowed a friend or two."

Gustave Kahn, manager of M. B. Curtis, makes himself heard of as follows: "I have just returned from Detroit, where Mr. Curtis has played a return engagement to packed houses. He seems to be as popular as ever in Sam'l of Posen. This week Mr. Curtis is playing an engagement at the Academy of Music in Jersey City. After that the tour will be through the West, over the Northern circuit to San Francisco. The season will close about the middle of March, after which Mr. Curtis will rusticate through the summer in California. Mr.

Corinne as Carmencita.

Curtis has under consideration the production of 'A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court,' the dramatization of Mark Twain's book. Of course, he would personate a wide-a-wake American Hebrew, instead of the Yankee who figures in the book, and this would naturally require a change in the bill. I do not know, however, whether Mark Twain would consent to such a change. But I am sure of one thing—Mr. Curtis would make a great success of the piece."—Dramatic Mirror.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

NOTHING LIKE IT

Its peculiar efficacy is due as much to the process and skill in compounding as to the ingredients themselves. Take it in time. It checks diseases in the outset, or if they be advanced will prove a potent cure.

FOR WHOSE BENEFIT

No Home should be Without It.

It takes the place of a doctor and dispenses with all prescriptions. All who lead sedentary lives will find it the best preventive of and cure for indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Piles and Mental Depression. No loss of time, no interference with business while taking. For children it is most innocent and harmless. No danger from exposure after taking. Cures Colic, Diarrhœa, Bowel Complaints, Feverishness and Feverish Colds. Invalids and delicate persons will find it the mildest aperient and tonic they can use. A little taken at night insures refreshing sleep and a natural evacuation of the bowels. A little taken in the morning sharpens the appetite, cleanses the stomach and sweetens the breath.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

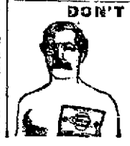

"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid instead of weakening the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."
L. M. HERRON, M.D., Washington, Ark.

SATURDAY..... FEBRUARY 21, 1891

THERE is a certain element of burlesque in the live campaign in Canada in which Sir John Macdonald is one of the queerest figures. His recent manifesto flinging charges of treason at all those who do not vote on his side has elicited this parody from his opponents: "Never" cries Sir John, "never will I be separated from the Union Jack. Behold me in my greatest act of waving it in the face of the traitor."

THE most persevering and most frequent talker in the United States Senate is Morgan of Alabama, and there was some surprise that he was heard so little during the debates on the Elections bill. He was not idle though, for it was headed out that had the effort to shelve the bill with the help of the Democrats proved a failure, Morgan was ready for the effort of his life. He would then have begun a speech that would have lasted, without a break, until March 4, and his Democratic colleagues were satisfied that his iron jaw was equal to forty days go-as-you-please match against time.

Some people in Kansas are not altogether pleased with their new Senator. Thus the Lawrence Journal says:

Judge Peffer is not a humbug, although in many things he approaches very near to the line. His great financial theory, "A Way Out," with which he started out to electrify the world in the campaign last fall, was so weak, so silly, and so lacking in sense that even the Alliance realized that he was doing their cause harm, and so called him off.

However, the conclusion is that it might have been worse, for one of the other Alliance candidates is characterized as a shyster and another as a rascal. Judge Peffer is not a member of the Alliance nor is he an agriculturist, except in the sense of one who works the farm instead of the farm.

W. N. GREEN of this city replies to the argument of the Rev. J. B. Silcox on the Sunday law and among other things says:

Another point which Mr. Silcox always holds up before his auditors, and which he presented before the committees at the hearing, is the highly moral condition and wonderful prosperity of the city of Toronto, Canada, where there is a very stringent Sunday law. But as the people of the Toronto World, which is in a better position to know the facts, says but Toronto has a higher percentage of criminal convictions than any of five of the Canadian cities brought into comparison, and which have no Sunday laws.

This may do for a reply, but the argument from a Sunday law to prosperity or from the absence of a Sunday law to the prevalence of crime calls to mind the reasoning of the dog who thought he made the wheel go round. This sort of argument proves nothing one way or the other and merely shows the case for the Sunday law with some very strong features.

A good deal of discussion is being had over the proposal to release state prisoners for good behavior. This is the English ticket-of-leave system with a few modifications, and it has proved so successful there that there is much inducement to copy it. The system is powerless, as any system of the kind must be, to prevent other released convicts from following up one of their number who desires to lead an honest life and strive to make it possible for him to make a living in that way. Apart from this, the plan tends to make the punishment of crime more certain, and in this respect it is only one degree less bad than the abuse of the pardoning power. It proceeds on the idea that we owe more consideration to the criminal classes than we do to honest folk, and if we make the punishment of felony three, four or five years' imprisonment, it is like holding out inducements to robbery and murder. Self defence before humanity.

The Sad Fortune of Two Women.

Something of what a woman will endure at the hands of a man without flinching may be gathered from the details of a murder case now on trial at Santa Barbara. The defendant, one Peter Laurence of Los Olivos, is a man of gentlemanly bearing and intelligent aspect, bland of manner, and described as looking the ideal Sunday school superintendent. He is charged with beating his wife to death, but this seems but a small part of his brutality and cruelty. For fourteen years he pursued the same treatment, and he might have been beating the unfortunate woman yet at convenient intervals had he not on one occasion overstepped the line and ended her misery. Some of the means of torture which he used on his wife are unfit for description, and others may be judged from the fact that for her sake he revived the medieval thumb screws, with the help of a vise, with which he would screw up her hand, leaving her to bear the torture of compression for hours. The final act of this tragedy Mrs. Laurence described in her antemortem statement:

He called me vile and opprobrious names, and kicked me severely several times, until finally I fell to the floor. He then kicked me many times while I was down, bruising my face and body. After down, bruising my face and body. After I got up he kicked me again, knocking me down, and then kicked me until I was insensible. After I again got up he threatened me with a revolver and struck me on the head many times with it. He then ordered me to go to our dwelling and kicked me several times on the way. When we arrived there he again attacked me, pulling my hair and finally knocking me down, and then he kicked me on the leg until the skin burst open.

When it is considered that this sort of [illegible], or something like it, had gone on for fourteen years one marvels over the forbearance of the unfortunate woman with accompanying doubts concerning the value of a civilization under which it is possible for a man to be such an unspeakable brute.

Two or three years ago a certain Mrs. Lebkuchner was tried in New York for poisoning her children. It was proved that she was pregnant at the time, that she and her children were starving, and that she had been cast out to die by the father of her children. She was acquitted, but what depths of horror and agony must she have sounded before her desperation drove her to take the lives of her little ones as the easiest way out of their misery. Neither was there any punishment for the man who drove her to that extremity.

Such cases are extreme, but they are no by any means uncommon in type, and yet there are flocks of geese people who are forever bleating in chorus for a more rigid and narrower divorce law.

The Letter That Never Came.

Concerning the "letter that never came" from Henry Watterson to Governor Hill, the New York Tribune muses:

Was it kidnapped or merely mislaid? Our own belief is that, having written, signed, envelopped and addressed the document, Colonel Watterson gave it to his bandmaiden, the Star Eyed Goddess of Reform, to lamp and mail; and, either because she imagines that in a calmer mood the Colonel might regret his impetuosity, or because she didn't happen to have a postage stamp in her pocket and the drug stores were all closed, that she retired to the seclusion of her own apartment and used the precious missive for curl papers. The theory includes a sad breach of faith on the part of the Star Eyed; but in the first place she has always been a trifle flighty, and in the second place she is a woman and the Colonel has been guilty of numerous infidelities. Here in this very letter, for example, he assures Governor Hill that he thinks well of him and would like to see him oftener and know him better. How could she be expected to put up with such trifling complacently? We have assumed that the letter was sealed when it was placed in her hands but there was nothing to prevent her opening it with a hairpin after the manner of her sex.

And yet this errant letter is like to be a sore subject in Democratic circles for more than a year to come. The present frantic efforts of the Democrats in Congress to get the Free Coinage bill out of the way so as to remove the question from national politics are due in large part to the knowledge that if silver is an issue next year they have no available candidate. Cleveland cannot be a candidate on a platform containing a free silver plank, whereas Hill has shown a disposition to take silver and the "friends of silver" to his bosom. It is now nearly certain, however, that there will be no further silver legislation before this Congress expires on March 4th, and so the question remains in national politics and the Democracy will be put to their choice between Cleveland and free trade and Hill and free silver. In that view Colonel Watterson's missing letter is a document of no little political significance.

COMPLAINS OF THE GAMBLERS.

A Correspondent Declares That Fleecers Are at Work Here.

To the Editor of The Tribune—SIR: I arrived in this lovely city several days ago and have ascertained by observation that illegal gambling is openly carried on here and no efforts are made to suppress it. The "tough" element claim to have "squared the town" and therefore fear no interference with their outlawed business. Evidently, they are left to their own sweet will in entrapping and fleecing "suckers" and earning their bread by the sweat of other men's brows. This condition of affairs should not be tolerated. These sleek, well-fed tricksters should be made to feel the heavy hand of the law. Their fines should at least be made proportionate to the amount of money they make out of their victims. Genuine gamblers—men who proudly make a distinction between their calling and the rustes of the "tinhorn"—regard an occasional fine of $10 a very cheap license to do business.

Section 330 of the Penal Code of California declares the punishment for playing faro, roulette, lansquenet, monte, rouge et noire, rondo, tan, tan-tar, stud horse poker, seven and a-half, twenty-one, or any other banking or percentage game with cards, dice, or any other device for money, checks, credits, or any other representative of value, to be by the not less than $200 nor more than $1000.

This statute is far stronger as to penalty and sounder in law than municipal ordinances upon the same subject. Connected with this is Section 331, which declares that "every person who knowingly permits any of the games mentioned in the preceding section to be played, conducted, or dealt in any house owned or rented by such person, in whole or in part, is punishable as provided in the preceding section." Section 332 of the same code makes it a misdemeanor for every district attorney, sheriff, constable or police officer (who has reasonable cause to believe there are such offenses committed) to fail to inform against and diligently prosecute lawbreakers of this class.

In a Justice's court in Chicago a lawyer made a strong and well sustained charge that the police are in league with the gamblers to prevent their prosecution. Having brought an action against some, he was offered $10 to withdraw the case; later on his witnesses were bought off, and finally his client, who had been fleeced of $800, was bought off, the police acting as intermediaries in all of these transactions.

Mr. Editor, by publishing the foregoing in your excellent paper you may arouse derelict officials and a dormant public to a sense of their duties with regard to these depraved games and their remorseless undertows, and to the utterly ruinous vice of gambling. Gamblers generally are men capable of making their living at more honorable occupations than that of deceiving their fellows. Drive them to it, or drive them hence. Yours for law and order,

J. P. COLE.

THE WATER ORDINANCE.

The Judiciary Committee Recommends That it Pass as Presented.

The Ordinance and Judiciary Committee of the City Council met last evening. Councilman Evans presided and Messrs. Brosnahan, Towle and Collins were present, as were also Earl, Macdonald and Kirk. Mr. Evans said that he had carefully instructed the City Clerk to see that all the members were present, but, notwithstanding his efforts to have a full meeting, Messrs. Cannon and Hackett were absent. The proposed ordinance fixing water rates, prepared by the Fire and Water Committee, was taken up and Mr. Evans said he thought the committee was warranted in proceeding without the two absent committeemen.

Mr. Brosnahan said if the absent committeemen wanted to make any amendments they could do so in the Council Chamber. Thereupon Mr. Brosnahan moved that the water ordinance be referred back to the City Council with the recommendation that it be passed. The motion was carried and the meeting adjourned.

Mr. Huff's Lap Robe.

Last December a lap robe was stolen from L. S. Huff's buggy and he gave a description of it to the police. They found it this morning and returned it to him.

STANLEY.

Will Write More About His African Work.

THE AUTHOR OF "THE ANGLOMANIACS,"

Robert Louis Stevenson's Mother—Her Unique Scrapbook—Sir Edwin Arnold's Daughter.

NEW YORK, February 16.

One would naturally imagine that Henry M. Stanley had written himself out on the subject of "Darkest Africa." I learned, however, a few evenings ago that the explorer had contracted to prepare a series of more distinctly popular articles on his experience than any he has yet written. These papers will deal more with the personal side of his life in the jungle, rather than add to the history of explorations. I asked Mr. Stanley recently in New York whether he enjoyed literary work. "Yes, I do," he replied, "I feel more at ease with the pen in hand than I do on the lecture platform, for example. Lecturing tires me exceedingly—writing refreshes me. That is, when I can have my own time. But to write, as I did in 'Darkest Africa', is a severe task. I was compelled to write against time and space, and any one who has ever attempted anything of that sort can realize the strain of such work. To write was my first vocation, and I long for the time when I shall be able to permanently return to it." Any amount of them, embracing everything from a history of Africa to a book of adventure for boys. And I should like nothing better then be able to write them all."

MRS. BURTON HARRISON'S NEW STORY.

Mrs. Burton Harrison has contracted, I understand, to write a new serial story for the Century—something in the line of "The Anglomaniacs" and yet in no respect similar. Mrs. Harrison's success affords a striking instance of the eagerness with which editors and publishers are looking for a fresh pen. More literary offers come to her than she can possibly fill, even if she was willing to work nights as well as every day. But besides the novel for the Century and an article which promises to attract the widest attention on "Social Life in New York," she has promised nothing to those who clamor for her work.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON'S MOTHER.

Robert Louis Stevenson has a mother who almost idolizes him. Mrs. Stevenson is a little Scotch woman who is almost revered by her neighbors in the town of Bournmouth, where at present she lives. Robert is her only son, and years ago, with her keen Scotch insight for character, she depicted that "Louis," as she calls him, would be heard of all through the world. "Just wait" she would say to her Scotch neighbors, "wait for Louis's turn. He will be a great man yet, and I shall live to see him famous." The mother's great enjoyment is a scrapbook of immense size, in which she religiously keeps everything that is written of her literary son. He sends all the newspaper scraps which he sees about himself to her, as also does his wife. On the title page of the scrapbook she has had inscribed the following lines:

Speak west of my love,
Speak ill of my luck,
But aye be speaking o' him."

EDWIN ARNOLD'S DAUGHTER.

A London friend sends me quite a pretty story anent the daughter of Sir Edwin Arnold. She is her father's secretary and his companion in most of his journeyings round the world. While during her recent stay in Japan Her Majesty's China Squadron ships and the American Pacific fleet were in the harbor of Yokahama at the same time. Sir Edwin and his daughter entertained the admirals of both fleets at luncheon, and in return were naturally on board the ships. The American fleet were first visited, and upon leaving the gallant American admiral presented Miss Arnold with a large bouquet, tied with ribbons of the ship, as a token of the respect of himself and his officers. The American courtesy came to the ears of the English commander, and, not to be outdone by his American brother, he presented Miss Arnold with a larger bouquet and doubled the number of ribbons. Then the American admiral sent Miss Arnold a few verses of his own composition. This was going a little farther than the English officer was capable of, but he had some verses written to Miss Arnold and dispatched them to her three days afterwards. The daughter then told her father, and she immediately found a third contestant. That same afternoon brought her another beautiful bouquet, and attached was a card bearing the following lines:

TO MY DAUGHTER.

Oh happy maid, whom two great Sages cousphire
To honor—blending rich melodious posies,
When admirals rhyme, the muse inscribes her lyre
To bind in pride their May flowers and their roses.

EDWIN ARNOLD.

A NORWEGIAN NOVELIST.

The bridle-paths of Central Park have not a more ardent devotee than a pleasant faced man of about 40 who, upon almost any bright Sunday afternoon, can be seen striding a horse as if he were born in the saddle. His short, thick-set form, smart coat, brown beard and curly hair give him the air of a commercial man rather than of a college professor and novelist, as is Hjalmar H. Boyesen the Norwegian story-teller and poet. Prof. Boyesen has but just reached the prime of life. He was born at Fredericsvaern, Norway, in 1848, was educated at Christiana and Leipsic and graduated from the University of Norway in 1868. He came immediately to this country where in 1869 he became editor of a Scandinavian paper in Chicago. In 1874 he was called to the professorship of German at Cornell University and in 1880 he accepted the offer of a similar position in Columbia, and came to New York city, where he has remained ever since. Prof. Boyesen is one of the rare examples of an author who has acquired wide reputation as a literary worker in a language other than his own. Many a native born American might well envy the graceful and elegant English of this Norwegian novelist. His many stories and poems have achieved considerable success, while latterly he has developed a new and profitable line of literary work in the form of juvenile stories. Prof. Boyesen is an enthusiastic writer, thoroughly in love with his work. "I am a robust person," he said at one time, "and write because my energies, for some reason, happen to take it at particular form. If I did not write I should probably drink, or bet on races. A man needs a safety valve, and this is mine." The story of his first book, "Gunnar," is curious and interesting. It was written merely to express the author's homesick longing for his native land, reproducing memories in words—lingering fondly over them, and adding fresh touches from time to time during the first two years of his life in America. One day in 1871 Prof. Boyesen happened to be in Harvard College library, where he was introduced to Prof. Child, who needed the assistance of a Norseman in the work of translating some Norwegian ballads for a work he had in preparation. After obtaining the necessary assistance, Prof. Child, who had been much impressed by the intelligence of Prof. Boyesen, exclaimed: "You have a lot of valuable material in your possession; why don't you use it?" Pro. Boyesen answered that he had written something, but with no idea of publication. A request for the manuscript followed, and this resulted in its examination by Prof. Child and several of his literary friends, and eventually in its publication. The unexpected but genuine success of this novel determined Prof. Boyesen's bent toward literature.

LITERARY DOINGS AND GOSSIP.

Of various efforts to induce Mrs. Garfield to undertake literary work, none have been successful. I saw a letter from Mrs. Garfield a few days ago in response to a publisher's offer, and she wrote: "I am very busy in my family, and that is the end of my ambition. In no way am I personally 'famous.' The name I bear is honorable and honored, but my own life has been only that of an ordinary woman devoted to husband and children. I have no desire to write, and always prefer that nothing be written concerning me."

Dr. Washington Gladden, the popular preacher-writer of the west, has in hand a new book nearly ready for publication. Its scope is indicated in its title, "Who Wrote the Bible?"—a book intended to give to the masses frankly and fully the sure results of the higher criticism.

Bill Nye tells us that he is writing a comedy in collaboration with Stuart Robson, which the latter will put on the stage. "It will be an oddity in some ways," said the humorist, "and will get a good hearing anyway—if not successful, therefore, it will be the fault of, ——Robson!"

Amelia E. Barr is to be paid $11,000 for the entire rights to her new novel by a New York publisher. After that she begins her exclusive contract with the Bonners for five years.

Sarah K. Bolton's successful books of biography for the young will hereafter be issued simultaneously in England and in this country.

John Habberton's novel, "All He Knew" is receiving the unusual compliment—for a piece of fiction—of pulpit recommendations.

Col. Thomas Wentworth Higginson, at 67, is doing perhaps as much literary work as a young man of 30, and everything which comes from his pen is done well. He is probably one of the oldest authors steadily at the desk with editorial connections and outside commissions.

Frank R. Stockton is going to defy the literary critics once more by writing a lengthy story. The novel, as yet, is simply planned in the outline, and will probably not be published until the latter part of the year. EDWARD W. BOK.

AMONG THE TRADES UNIONS.

The Tradesman will pass from the control of H. C. Hinds to the charge of W. B. Soule and Eugene Hough.

Three bakers, members of the Bakers' Union, No. 51, of San Francisco, employed at Merrick's bakery, near the corner of Seventh and Washington streets, walked out three weeks ago. The Alameda County Federated Trades have endorsed the action of the bakers, also the Cigarmakers and Painters. In justice to Mr. Merrick, we state that he has signified his willingness to unionize his shop on Sunday night.—Oakland Tradesman.

W. G. Bell has been installed by President Soule of the Federation as President of the Longshoremen's Union, vice P. M. Warren, resigned. The late ball given by this organization was both a social and financial success. The union has in contemplation a picnic as soon the weather will permit. About 200 members are now on the books.

The Painters and Decorators are taking the initiatory step towards the establishment of a labor headquarters by giving a ball and entertainment, the proceeds of which will be devoted solely to this purpose. The affair will take place at Cavalry Hall, February 28th. As soon as the headquarters are established, other unions will be invited to take part; and it is the intention to make it a general meeting place for all belonging to organized labor unions.

The visit of President Gompers to this coast, the latter part of this month, under the direction of the Pacific Coast Federation, is receiving due attention by the Alameda County Federation. A committee has been appointed to make arrangements for a mass meeting to be addressed by that officer.

At the last meeting of the Federated Trades the Executive Committee reported that no agreement had been made with the proprietor of the Merrick Bakery, but that he has promised to make his shop an union one, but until he discharges his non-union bakers the boycott will be maintained. The Organizing Committee reported that an effort will be made to have the brewery workers of Oakland hold meetings as a branch union. Messrs. Kaufman and Mullender were added to the committee appointed to prepare for the reception of President Gompers. The Executive Committee reported their strike ended and that the works henceforth will be governed by Amalgamation rules. Thanks were offered to the Council and to all unions that rendered assistance. The Painters' and Decorators' Union reported the petition to the Superior Court to oust the Commissioners of Public Works from office because the Commissioners failed to comply with the code, because they did not in act in a contract for painting the City Hall, a clause that eight hours constitute a day's work. The action of the union was endorsed.

The Musician's Union has appointed a committee to request certain musicians lately arrived in this city to join their union. A charter will be received from their National League in a few weeks; $10 was voted to the support of the Painter's ball for labor headquarters.

prove effectual.

"In the summer of 1864 I was sent to the Annapolis Hospital, suffering with chronic diarrhœa. While there, I became so reduced in strength that I could not speak and was compelled to write everything I wanted to say. I was then having some 25 or 30 stools per day. The doctors ordered a medicine that I was satisfied would be of no benefit to me. I did not take it, but persuaded my nurse to get me some of Dr. Ayer's Pills. About two o'clock in the afternoon I took six of these pills, and by midnight began to feel better. In the morning the doctors came again, and after deciding that my symptoms were more favorable, gave me a different medicine, which I did not use, but took four more of the pills instead. The next day the doctors came to see me, and thought I was doing nicely, (and so did I). I then took one pill a day for a week. At the end of that time, I considered myself cured, and that Ayer's Pills had saved my life. I was then weak, but had no return of the disease, and gained in strength as fast as could be expected."—F. C. Luce, Late Lieut. 56th Regt. Mass. Vol. Infantry.

"Ayer's Pills are

The Best

I have ever used for headaches, and they act like a charm in relieving any disagreeable sensation in the stomach after eating."—Mrs. M. J. Ferguson, Fullens, Va.

"I was a sufferer for years from dyspepsia and liver troubles, and found no permanent relief until I commenced taking Ayer's Pills. They have effected a complete cure. —George W. Mooney, Walla Walla, W. T.

DIMOND TRACT

Fruit Vale Avenue, East Oakland.

Fruit Vale avenue has for many years been deemed to be one of the most desirable locations this side of the bay, for residence property. It is sheltered from winds, has a sunny exposure and delightful climate, and is handsomely improved by a number of the most elegant homes and charming ornamental gardens. The tract now offered for sale is a portion of the home place of Mr. Hugh Dimond, and is situated upon the avenue, at the intersection of Hopkins street—the terminus of the Highland Park and also the new Fruit Vale street railways. The Highland Park line is about to be reconstructed and re-equipped, and will furnish frequent access to and from this property, including early and late trips. Lots will be sold on liberal terms, if desired. Superior cement sidewalks are being laid. City water is being introduced. It is also proposed to have electric lights upon the avenue.

AS AN INDUCEMENT for parties erecting homes, arrangements have been made with the Railway Company whereby a FREE PASS, good for five years, will be furnished for each dwelling erected upon the tract within a specified time. For the purpose of protecting the property and insuring a good class of purchasers, a stipulation will be required that no house worth less than $2500 shall be erected. Purchasers will, however, not be required to build at all, if they do not desire. These lots have upon them, choice, vigorous, young fruit trees, now in full bearing. THE END.

Sherman's Resting Place at St. Louis Reached.

THE HOMAGE PAID TO HIS REMAINS.

Business Suspended—The Funeral Procession—Soldiers in Line—A Mourning City.

ST. LOUIS, February 21.—The train carrying the remains of General Sherman left Indianapolis last night at 11 o'clock. The members of the party retired for the night soon after. When Terre Haute was reached at 1:17 A. M. slumber was disturbed, however, by the heavy discharges of a battery saluting the train. Notwithstanding the hour 2,000 people were at the station, and another stop of an hour was made here. All through the rest of the night the train sped on until after sunrise at Vandalia, Ill., a heavy discharge of cannon awoke every one on the train. A stop of ten minutes was made to afford people a chance to see the casket. At every little cross road as the train neared St. Louis were groups of people, and all stood uncovered as the train passed. This mark of respect was universal during the entire trip from New York. East St. Louis was reached at 8:15. A large crowd, mostly railroad men, gathered here. After a few minutes' stop the train started across the bridge.

BUSINESS SUSPENDED.

Flags all over the city are at half mast and many of the buildings and stores are draped in mourning, and black-framed pictures of the dead General could be seen in numerous windows. The business of the city is entirely suspended and the streets are filled with people. The day was all that could be desired so far as sunshine, cool, and clear air was concerned, but the streets are very muddy from the recent rainstorm. To this storm is due largely the meagre mourning decorations. At the Union Depot and in all the streets in the immediate vicinity immense crowds of people were assembled. The funeral train arrived at just half-past 8. As it crossed the bridge a salute from a battery

ANNOUNCED ITS APPROACH.

Emerging from the tunnel the train was compelled to proceed slowly while the police cleared the tracks of people. When the train reached the platform Governor Francis, who was there with his staff and the members of the reception committee paid his respects to Generals Schofield and Howard and other military officers accompanying the funeral party. After an exchange of greetings it was announced that everything was in readiness for the funeral procession. Meanwhile the military were moved into position. The caisson on which the body was to be born was standing in readiness. It was drawn by six bay horses, the riders of which were men who worked the Hotchkiss gun in the battle of Wounded Knee in the recent Indian war. The body bearers were eight sergeants, four from the Seventh cavalry and four from Battery E, First artillery.

THE SOLDIERS.

In front of the caisson was the Twelfth Infantry from Fort Leavenworth drawn up in line facing the depot. On the opposite side of the street was Ransom Post, G. A. R., which acted as a guard of honor. The horse that was led behind the caisson, equipped with the dead General's saddle, bridle, boots and spurs, was a black one belonging to Troop D of the Seventh Cavalry.

AT THE GRAVE.

The procession was divided in six divisions. It was composed of the regular military escort provided by the regular army regulations, the Grand Army Posts, the Loyal Legion Sons of Veterans, the civic societies, the State Militia of Missouri, and Ohio members of the Legislatures of Missouri, Illinois, and Kansas, the Governors of States and their staffs, and unorganized bodies of citizens in carriages and on foot. The route of the procession was from the depot to Calvary Cemetery, a distance of nearly eight miles, through some of the principal streets and avenues of St. Louis. The windows of nearly all the buildings were filled with spectators and the sidewalks were crowded with a struggling mass of humanity. The entrance to the cemetery was by the rear gate. The larger part of the military remained outside the cemetery. The services at the grave were of a military character, the only exception being the reading of a prayer by Rev. Thomas Sherman, son of deceased General. Thousands of people were present at the ceremony.

THE PARADE.

All the floral pieces were placed in an open barouche to be taken to the cemetery. At 10:30 General Merritt, Chief Marshal and staff arrived. The casket was then removed from the car and as it was placed on the caisson the Twelfth Infantry presented arms and the band played a dirge. Many of those assembled were touched by the sight and the veterans and comrades of the dead General could be seen to weep on all sides. Generals Howard and Slocum were so overcome that they could not speak for several minutes. The order of march was then given and the Twelfth Infantry companies wheeled into line and marched up Eleventh street, followed by the caisson, on either side of which 40 members of Ransom Post had ranged themselves. Next came the members of the Sherman family and people who had come with them from New York in carriages.

HIGH AND LOW.

A Review of the Weather Beyond the Mountains.

WASHINGTON, February 21.—The storm that has been going northeastward from Arizona since Wednesday, was this morning central over Lake Superior and joined to it is the extension of low pressure, to the south reaching to Alabama. Heavy rains prevail in most districts east of the Mississippi river, being severe over the lakes with an extensive area of low barometer reaching south. Heavy rains are likely to fall in the upper Ohio and Atlantic States today. An area of high barometric pressure is moving rapidly from the northwest attended with a moderately cold wave. The clearing conditions will tonight and on Sunday displace the clouds, and rain reaching to the Alleghany mountains tonight and the Atlantic coast on Sunday with cooler weather especially in the upper Ohio valley.

THE TREASURY PORTFOLIO.

Ex-Governor Foster of Ohio to Be a Cabinet Minister.

Martin A. Knapp of New York Appointed One of the Interstate Commerce Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, February 21.—The President today nominated Charles Foster of Ohio Secretary of the Treasury.

Martin A. Knapp of New York Interstate Commerce Commissioner.

The nomination of ex-Governor Foster of Ohio to be Secretary of the Treasury is favorably received about the Capitol. He is, it is said, thoroughly in accord with the President's financial policy and a conservative man, whose opinions are all favorable to a sound stable currency. The Republicans generally expressed themselves well satisfied with the President's selection and those Democrats who were seen said they had nothing to say against it, conceding that the President had the right to select his advisers in accord with his policy. Representative McKinley said: "Foster will demonstrate the wisdom of the President's selection. He is sound on finance and an able man."

In the Soudan.

The losses upon the part of the Egyptians are: Captain Barrow and twelve men killed. Captain Berry and four Egyptian officers and forty-two men wounded. After leaving a force of troops to garrison Tokar, the Egyptian troops marched direct to Afafite and ascended the hills recently occupied by the enemy. Afafite was found to have been vacated, though there were hundreds of Arabs in the vicinity. These Arabs quickly surrendered to the Egyptians handing over their captors a number of spears and rifles. The Egyptians also captured a large quantity of stores and ammunition.

STRAINS OF MELODY.

A Morning Musicale for the Debut of a Violinist.

MISS FLORENCE FLETCHER'S SUCCESS.

The Concert by the Orchestra of the Sunday School of the First Congregational Church.

Society has a new fad, that of morning musicales, and Oakland introduced here today the custom, which obtains in Europe and the Eastern States of this country. The occasion was a very pleasing one, being a musicale at Hamilton Hall, to which Mrs. Stephen T. Gage issued the invitations. At this musicale occurred the debut as a violinist of Mrs. Gage's neice, Miss Florence Fletcher. Unfortunately the elements did not enter into the harmony of the occasion for the rain came down in ungentle showers and the streets were sloppy and dirty, but even these unfortunate conditions did not deter the ladies invited (and only ladies were invited) from attending in such numbers that the hall was well filled when at 10 o'clock the entertainment began.

The programme was well arranged. In addition to Miss Fletcher performances were listed for Miss Grace Henderson, Miss Augusta Fuegel, Miss Marguerite O'Connell and Clark W. Reynolds and the repertoire consisted of selections from Von Weber, Rossini, Schubert-Liszt, Lohr and Mendelssohn.

Miss Fuegel was first to appear, and played C. M. Von Weber's "Rondeau Brillant," op. 62, so charmingly that there was loud demand for an encore, to which she responded with Chopin's "Nocturne" in F sharp. Then came Miss Fletcher.

The burst of enthusiasm that greeted her appearance was hushed as the first clear notes of the music sounded. Her selection was Ries's Romanze, Suite, No. 2. Her playing is thorough and artistic, the tone clear and resonant, and the technique skillful. A slight nervousness at first soon wore away. When she removed the violin from her shoulder the applause was so earnest that she had to respond, and gave for the encore David's "Caprice."

A solo by Miss Henderson, Rossini's "Separation," followed, and the applause was checked when, during the demand for an encore, Mr. Redfield announced that Miss Henderson was suffering from an acute attack of bronchitis and was almost over exerting herself in carrying out her part of the programme. Miss Fuegel seated herself at the piano again and played Schubert-Liszt's "Hark! Hark! the Lark," receiving another encore, to which she responded with Chopin's harp study. Another solo, "Love's Proving," Lohr's charming composition, by Miss Henderson and then the entertainment closed with Mendelssohn's violin concerto by Miss Fletcher. This was the test of the young violinist's capabilities she proved what had already been indicated, that she is a most skillful and artistic performer and a worthy student of music.

After the performance closed Mrs. Fletcher was surrounded by her many friends, who hastened to congratulate her on the success of her debut, while Mrs. Gage was also offered many compliments for the charming manner in which the entertainment had been provided.

THE ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.

Every seat in the spacious auditorium of the First Congregational Church was filled and the gallery benches were crowded with people last night, the attraction being the orchestral concert given by the Sunday School orchestra, Rev. John Rea, conductor. Miss Sylvia Chapman, the gifted daughter of the popular Presbyterian pastor of East Oakland, assisted with several recitations. Without exception the selections played, the orchestra showed careful preparation, and considering that a majority of the members of the orchestra are young amateurs, the concerted playing was remarkably even. Perhaps Eilenberg's "Mill in the Forest" proved the most popular number, although Behr's nocturne in F was also heartily encored.

Of the soloists on the programme Alex T. Stewart, violinist, was absent, his physician having forbidden him to leave his room.

Fred S. Gutterson's 'cello solo, with orchestral accompaniment was a very meritorious performance.

V. Van Buskirk's selection of a theme for his trombone solo was a gruesome melody, that was more distinct by way of contrast from the other and lighter airs given.

Of Miss Constance Jordan's part as accompanist it may be said she met all the requirements of that position. Mr. Rea is to be congratulated on the degree of excellence already achieved by the orchestra under his guidance.

Miss Chapman was most heartily received. Her scene from "Pickwick," where the good man is misunderstood by Landlady Bardel, and is thought to have proposed marriage, was excellently well read, as was the "Schoolboy's Description of Recitation Day" and the "Visit to a Sick Lady." Miss Chapman's stage presence is easy and graceful, her enunciation clear and distinct, and her voice is exceedingly melodious. Some day perhaps, Oakland, in her, will add another to the list of stars it has given to the dramatic world.

Rev. Mr. Rea announced that in consequence of the hearty appreciation manifested by the audience, the orchestra would give another concert next Tuesday night, when there will be a complete change of programme, except, perhaps, in the orchestral numbers.

TWENTY-THIRD AVENUE CHORAL UNION.

A concert was given by the Twenty-third Avenue Choral Union at the Centennial Presbyterian Church on Twenty-fourth avenue, on Thursday evening. Not a very large gathering attended, but those that were there spent an enjoyable evening. Those who had charge of the affair were: Mrs. Charles Poulter, Maellywd Jones, Miss Della Brackett, W. E. Hughes, and Miss Birdie Backus. An interesting programme was presented, and each number brought forth merited applause.

The members of the Union are: Miss Katie Abrams, Miss Birdie Backus, Miss Annie Buck, Miss Booth, Miss Maude Campe, Miss Annie Corrigan, Miss Alice Cornwall, Miss Blanche Carpenter, Miss Lucy Carpenter, Miss Alice Fake, Miss Lillian Fearey, Miss N. Harbinson, Miss May Hassard, Miss N. Hassard, Mrs. Hampton, Miss M. Menomy, Miss Christiana Purves, Miss Edith M. AMONG THE MUSICIANS.

At the Pilgrim Congregational Church on Thursday evening next a concert programme will be carried out, which promises to be a treat. The affair is given by the ladies of the music committee assisted by the choir directors, the net proceeds to go toward paying for the new organ recently purchased. There will be one piano and organ number by Harry O. Hunt and Miss Constance Jordan and a trio for violin, organ and piano by them and Alexander T. Stewart, violinist. Mr. Stewart will also play with piano two movements from the Schubert Sonata, opus 137 and Thomet's "Andante Religioso" with organ, Miss Jordan accompanying each. Mrs. Mintzer, an amateur soprano of ability from San Francisco, will contribute two solos, the aria from Der Freischutz, and ballads. Miss Lena Carroll, the new contralto, will sing a number and Miss Belle Chamberlain, pianist, will give Jensen's "Wandering Breezes." Frank Mitchell, the San Francisco tenor, will sing a solo and with the soprano, a duet, Nicolai's "L'Addio."

Miss Beatrice Priest occupies a place among popular concert singers. She has sung here many times and always has been given a most cordial reception. Her personal friends are legion and steadfast. And that is who the testimonial concert contrived in her honor is already guaranteed a success. On Monday evening, March 2d, a concert will be given in her honor at the First Methodist Church, on which occasion she will be assisted by J. C. Hughes of San Francisco, basso; H. Clay Wysham, flutist; Clarke W. Reynolds, accompanist, and a select choir of twenty voices from the Harmonic Society, D. P. Hughes, conductor.

Leaving the city about March 9th, Miss Priest will make a leisurely trip overland to New York City, where for a term of years she will prosecute her studies.

Tickets for her concert are placed at fifty cents each and are on sale at Clark Wise's, Kohler & Chase's and Bruenn's music stores.

The Argonaut contains the following paragraph concerning a singer formerly of this city. "Marie Stinson-Lathrop, whose brilliant voice and singing delighted those who heard her here a few months since, is now studying with Adams, of Boston. He has given her Martha and the "Shadow Dance" from Dinorah, and, though an exceedingly conservative man, he expresses high hopes for her future. He gives Pasmore, her former teacher, his unqualified approval for his "wise and excellent treatment" of her voice.

BIGAMY OR PERJURY, WHICH?

Mrs. Mary Brennan Says She is the Wife of John Gilmore.

Mary Brennan's testimony was very interesting when she was placed on the witness stand in the Police Court this morning in response to the charge of disturbing the peace of John Gilmore, father of the well-known dry goods merchant. She said that she had been married to Gilmore years ago, but had never been divorced, though he had married another woman.

At this Prosecuting Attorney Church questioned her closely. She averred, though, that the divorce had never been issued, though an agreement of separation was drawn up for them by Attorney J. C. Martin.

The charge against the defendant was dismissed, though one of battery with reference to the same trouble was subsequently preferred against him.

A Tailor's Suit.

Justice Allen was engaged yesterday in hearing testimony in the suit of C. N. Horne against M. J. Keller, to recover a balance due as wages. Horne was a cutter in Mr. Keller's tailoring establishment, and worked under a contract. When he left Keller's employ the latter retained a part of his wages to cover any damage which might occur through the lack of skill of the cutter, and it is to recover this money that the suit is brought. Justice Allen will render a decision next week.

Foster Must Try Again.

John Foster recently sued the Carpenters' Union of this city to recover $5000 damages because they expelled him from the local union and prevented him from getting work. The defendants demurred to the complaint, and yesterday Judge Greene sustained the demurrer. Foster may file an amended complaint. In deciding the demurrer his Honor rendered a written opinion, giving valuable hints on the way to plead the case.

An Answer to Her Uncle.

Heloise R. C. Velati has filed an answer to the complaint of her uncle, Jean B. Denis. She says that she did not cheat the old man out of his property, but, on the contrary, he voluntarily deeded the lands to her which he now seeks to recover. She says that she is willing that he shall live on the property without payment of rent, but she is not willing that he shall recover the title.

IMPERIAL FISCAL UNION.

Sir John Macdonald's Great Financial Scheme

To Checkmate the Liberals—Great Britain, Australia, and Canada to Be United.

NEW YORK, February 21.—The Herald's Montreal special says: I am informed by personal friends of Sir John Macdonald that it is the latter's intention, if re-elected, to make overtures to Great Britain or to Australia with a view to arranging a mutual tariff as against the rest of the world. The idea of an imperial fiscal union is looked upon with a good deal of favor here, both by the Liberals and Conservatives, and it would surprise no one should a commission be appointed to negotiate with the home Government on these matters. It is said that Sir John may even go over himself and leave the Government in the hands of Sir Charles Tupper, who would have again to enter active politics and represent some constituency. It is believed that Sir John is having a great deal of trouble with the manufacturers who are demanding pledges of higher duties as the price of their support, and I was told by a prominent manufacturer that the duties on both flour and coal would be increased should the Conservatives be successful.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Democrats Filibustering in the House—The Canal Bill.

WASHINGTON, February 21.—The House has been in a state of wild disorder during this morning over the question of approving the journal of yesterday's proceedings. In the Senate, the Nicaragua Canal bill was taken up at close of the morning hour, and Morgan replied to the arguments made yesterday against it.

Longfellow Memorial Exercises.

The Literary Committee of the Working Women's Club, consisting of Miss L. P. Shaw, Miss L. E. White, Mrs. P. A. Moffitt, Mrs. Dr. Van Kirk, have arranged an admirable programme for Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. It is to consist of exercises commemorative of the poet Longfellow. A biographical sketch will be read by Miss White. Rev. C. W. Wendte gives personal recollections and John Vance Cheney a talk on Longfellow's works. Miss F. M. Estebrook, teacher of elocution, State Normal School; Miss Alma Alden, a youthful poet of San Francisco, and George F. Emery have promised recitations. Miss Jennie Winston, formerly of Los Angeles, Miss Dawn Prescott, E. Von Adelung Jr., and others will contribute music for the occasion. As members are privileged to invite friends, no doubt the commodious parlors of the Chabot Home, will on this occasion, as on the recent one of entertaining the "C's" be taxed to their utmost capacity, yet it is certainly satisfactory to see this excellent institution so hospitable about opening its doors to kindred orders and whatever savors of mental or moral progress.

THE RELIGIOUS CENSUS.

Information of the Church Affiliation of the Residents.

The city has been districted for the religious census soon to begin. It is found that there are about 7000 members of the Protestant Churches in Oakland, and churches representing 6000 of these co-operate in this movement, the object of which is to secure information with regard to the religious affiliations and status of every family, and as far as may be of every individual, in this city. The movement is interdenominational, and is a form of church co-operation that has been fruitful in excellent results in many Eastern cities. There are 10,000 houses inside the corporate limits of this city.

THE STORES WILL CLOSE.

Dry Goods Men Will Keep the Holiday Monday.

It was understood today that all the other dry goods storekeepers in Oakland would close on Monday if Taft & Pennoyer would consent to close this afternoon. Mr. Taft said he desired to close, and desires merely that the others agree to do so. It is therefore probable that the clerks in dry goods stores will enjoy the holiday Monday.

A Deceptive Dollar.

A bright dollar has lain on the crossing of Eleventh street at Broadway all day today. The dollar was bogus and some practical joker had nailed it to the walk. It was amusing to see the pedestrians try to pick it up, and quite a crowd gathered to see the fun. A lady, stylishly attired, spotted the dollar, felt of her purse, and passed on only to return and grab for it, and as the blushes mounted to her cheeks some of the crowd were heartless enough to laugh. It was lots of fun for a rainy day.

A Common Brass Pin!

Without a point would be worthless, so would an advertisement. Observe the point of this. You want to spend money and save it while doing so. This can only be done by spending it where the best values are to be had, I claim to give them, and base my claim on the following—I sell for cash only and can afford to give you the same goods for less money than any credit store. If you do pay them cash you pay credit prices as they must be insured against loss on credit customers. The Lace House is conceded to be the only strictly cash Establishment in Oakland, 1069 and 1071 Washington street is the location.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

VERY NEAR DEATH

Terrible Experience of Several People.

HOW A LITTLE ORDINARY CARE MAY SAVE A HUMAN LIFE.

At the present time when danger is lurking at almost every turn, it is better to use an ounce of precaution than a pound of cure. When you are aware that they are the germs of a dreaded disease in your constitution, it is far better to consult an eminent specialist than to let the disease develop itself, and then run the chance of being saved. Did you ever hear the story of the children in the burning house? They were on the top floor and quietly played while the lower floor was burning. When the blaze reaches us we can jump, they argued.

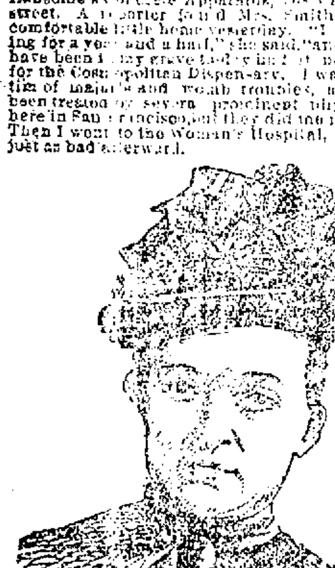

Would it not have been better to have escaped before the danger reached them? There are thousands of men who are placed in similar positions. They keep on suffering until the disease develops so strongly that there is danger of forfeiting their lives. Escape when you have the opportunity. Do not be like the children in the burning house. Listen what a young lady has to say of her escape:

"I suffered intense agony with an ulcerated leg for eighteen months. I saw several physicians concerning it and they all advised me to have it amputated. One month ago I called at the Cosmopolitan Dispensary and went under treatment. It gives me pleasure to testify to-day that there is no trace of the ulcer more than a slight discoloration of the skin, which is fast disappearing.

Mrs. S. G. Smith, residing at 1705 Market street, has been a sufferer for a couple of years. She is the wife of Mr. S. G. Smith, connected with Ransome's Concrete Apparatus, the California street. A reporter found Mrs. Smith in her comfortable little home yesterday. "I was dying for a year and a half," she said, "and would have been in my grave to-day had it not been for the Cosmopolitan Dispensary. I was a victim of malarial and womb troubles, and had been treated by several prominent physicians here in San Francisco, but they did me no good. Then I went to the Woman's Hospital, but was just as bad afterward.

MRS. S. G. SMITH.

"I had to keep a nurse in the house to attend me, and she persuaded me to go to the Cosmopolitan Dispensary. I refused at first, but finally I consented. They examined me thoroughly, and I began treatment. That was three weeks ago. To-day I am a well woman. Their medicines acted like magic.

WILLIAM P. KANE, living at 1712 Post street, San Francisco, is another gentleman whose wonderful cure of Asthma and Catarrh is remarkable. Mr. Kane has resided here for 28 years, and is in the employ of the California Furniture Company.

Remembering the Birthday of Washington.

CELEBRATION AT ST. MARY'S COLLEGE.

Addresses, Music, Recitations and a Poem Upon the Father of His Country.

Last evening the students of St. Mary's College belonging to the Collegian Literary Society and members of the class of '92 held a fitting celebration in honor of Washington's Birthday. An invitation to attend one of these delightful entertainments at St. Mary's College is always welcome, for the talent there displayed is worthy of the large audiences that always assembles on such occasions. Last evening was no exception to the rule, excepting that if anything the entertainment was better than usual, there was a larger attendance, and for the first time the hall was decorated. Flags and bunting were profuse, and festoons of tri-colored streamers were suspended from the ceiling, while the artistic hands of some of the students had embellished the blackboards with works of art in colors. Among them were life-sized drawings of George Washington and Archbishop Carroll, the first Archbishop of America and a beloved friend of Washington. Beside the stage was a large picture of the late General Sherman, draped in mourning, and the stage itself was liberally embellished.

The college orchestra played its best, and the singing of J. L. Taylor, the recitation of Francis A. Barrett, and the recitation of Daniel I. Sheerin were unusually good, especially the latter, which was given by the young man in the Continental uniform of the days of '76. The programme was as follows:

In his opening address John E. Kelley said the birthday of Washington is a day sacred not only to the American people, but to every friend of liberty, civil and religious, throughout the world. The hardships and trials which Washington and his compatriots endured to secure the independence of our country are graven on the heart of every American citizen. When we consider the grandeur of our environments, and realize that we live in a land of peace and plenty—a land where each citizen is the peer of his fellow, regardless of heritage, pedigree or ancestry, other than that which springs from native nobility of character, a land where each man can rise to a station in life commensurate with his worth and ability, where each man is free to worship God according to the dictates of an enlightened conscience, with none to question or forbid; we cherish anything and everything connected with those noble men who laid the broad and deep foundation of our glorious republic. Hence it is we celebrate the 22d of February as a national festival, for it is the natal day of Washington, who was the pole star of our independence. Feeble we feel is the homage that we pay, and far below what this occasion calls for, but as the widow's mite was acceptable because of the motives that prompted it, we trust that our patriotic purpose will make our programme pleasing.

The poem by Fred W. Noble was warmly received, and the young poet received a very hearty welcome. The first and last verses were as follows:

Other lands may boast their heroes,
Victors in a hundred fights,
Vaunt the praises of a Bayard,
Peerless 'mid the noble knights.
But Columbia's bosom quickens
With a mother's tender pride,
When she names her child, whose daring
Stemmed for her the battle's tide,
He who broke the cruel fetters,
That had bound her as a slave,
And proclaimed her 'mid the nations,
Mother of the free and brave.

God of Armies! If our fair land
Be again by foes oppressed,
Let the mantle of "The Father
Of His Country" fall and rest
On a soul as pure and noble,
On a heart as true and brave,
On a warrior ever faithful
To the lessons that he gave;
That no cloud may dim the beauty
Of the liberty he won,
And the years but add new splendor
To the name of Washington.

The oration of William F. Fitzpatrick was also worthy of the applause it received, for it was truly good. As a whole the exercises last night were unusually interesting.

USE St. Jacobs Oil The Great REMEDY FOR PAIN

L. W. KENNEDY'S CANDIDACY.

A Letter From Business Firms Asking Him to Run for Mayor.

He Accepts the Invitation and Issues a Challenge to All Other Candidates.

In the following correspondence L. W. Kennedy is asked to be a candidate for Mayor and accepts the invitation. A TRIBUNE reporter remarked that no reference is made in the correspondence to political parties. Mr. Kennedy replied that as no mention was made of party in the communication to him he made no mention of party in his reply. "I am a black Republican myself," said he, "but no reference being made in the letter to me about party, I made no reference to it in my reply. This is a business proposition. A number of business men ask me to be a candidate for Mayor and they give their reasons, something no other communications have done, and I accept their invitation to be a candidate and to give a business administration if I am elected.

Following is the correspondence:

OAKLAND, February 3, 1891.

L. W. Kennedy, Esq.—DEAR SIR: During the twenty years of your residence in this city every public effort of yours (and they are neither few nor unimportant) has been along the line of the best public interests; and the many enterprises you have inaugurated, so far as they have been successful, have all, without exception, promoted those interests.

It is this knowledge which prompts and inspires this communication.

Sincerely believing that you are the man for the occasion, we hereby urge you to announce yourself for Mayor at the ensuing election.

We feel confident that not only would the public improvements already proposed be vigorously and successfully prosecuted, but also, with the added knowledge, wider influence, and greater power which the office of Mayor would give you, that you would discern many opportunities, and would organize and carry to success many enterprises and industries of great benefit to our city—enterprises inducing the investment here of heavy capital from abroad, thereby affording employment at remunerative wages to the hundreds of honest and worthy people in our midst who now vainly seek the privilege of laboring for their daily bread.

We earnestly hope you will favorably consider this request, and duly announce yourself as a candidate for the office of Mayor of the City of Oakland.

MR. KENNEDY'S REPLY.

OAKLAND, February 13, 1891.

Messrs. Hickox & Son, Mark Everson, Chris Schreiber, E. T. Flint & Co., Young & Finney, and others—GENTLEMEN: You have requested me to announce myself as a candidate for Mayor, and have given two good reasons for doing so:

One—That I have done that of which you as business men approve.

The other—That, judging the future by the past, you believe, if elected Mayor, all my efforts would be as heretofore—on the line of the public interests, in which I would be greatly assisted by the added influence of the office. Your reasons are satisfactory; your arguments unanswerable. Therefore your request is granted.

On and after the 16th, in person or by proxy, I shall be at my headquarters, 463 Thirteenth street between Broadway and Washington streets, ready to co-operate with you, and I hereby extend an especial invitation to the mechanics, laboring men and every person idle from necessity and not from choice, to join with us in trying to make something besides a "bedchamber" of our beautiful city, which has all the necessary qualifications to make it a second Chicago, during our life time.

I courteously challenge each, all, and every candidate for Mayor, to meet and sign a joint agreement to prepare and simultaneously publish in all our city papers, the reasons why they wish to be Mayor; what they will do and what they will try to do if elected. Giving a frank, clear and unequivocal expression of their views on every question the people are now considering. Sincerely yours,

L. W. KENNEDY.

FOR MAYOR.

L. W. Kennedy.

If you wish the mountains which dam out the trade of Contra Costa removed and cast into the sea north of the Mole. A grove of grain warehouses planted thereon. The union of ships and car and the return of the wandering grain shipment of the State from Port Costa with the hundreds who labor thereat. If you wish an Appian way through those mountains which will invite and admit the entrance of competing railroads, provide one of the grandest drives on earth to Mt. Diablo. If you wish a five story hotel on the corner of Broadway and Fourteenth street which like the famous Palace of San Francisco, shall extend luxurious comfort to the rich and prodical make it fashionable for our wealthy sleepers from San Francisco to entertain their visiting sisters, cousins and aunts, thereat making a difference of at least two million dollars per annum to our resident merchants. If you wish an elegant Post Office Building now. If you wish some one, to delve for, discover, and organize the concealed opportunities of your city into active, living beneficial industries, vote for the man who represents the living germ of your wishes as embraced in each and all of such enterprizes

If the truth must be told, and I believe I have gained some good repute for veracity, indeed I sometimes hear of myself that I am too, too truthful and tell too much. I have been listening to ghost stories instead of to society gossip. I heard some murmurs among my comrades in the Working Women's Club about the publication of the queer story that strange sounds go pit-a-pat in Miss Dr. Buckel's house, in which Governor Bartlett died, and I think our President, Dr. Buckel, fully blew the wind through the stories, but Mr. Bacon, who is editor of some insurance publication in San Francisco, something that is full of figures and other uninterestingness, one night recently rented the wild lute of Governor Bartlett's excitable and peripatetic cane. According to his story, after the death of the Governor his stick hopped about the room in a most undignified way, without any apparent assistance from mortal hands, and was so thoroughly unruly that, unsubdued in its entirety, it was chopped into pieces during a season of repose and the pieces were utterly consumed of fire.

No ghost story is that that Rhodes Borden is going to give up his law office in Oakland and move to offices in the Stock Exchange building in San Francisco, the very same building in which he studied law in the offices of Garber, Boalt & Bishop. Jack says that Mr. Borden's studies in science were directed to the theory of the eminent and lamented Hochstadter by Professor Moore and Judge Henshaw, but what this all means I have not the least idea.

I do know, though, that Mr. and Mrs. C. O. G. Miller gave a very charming dinner, informally, on Thursday evening at their pretty house at the corner of Tenth and Adeline streets, and that at the table were Miss Borden, Miss Clement, Miss Goodall, Miss McKee, Miss Whitney, Miss Miller, Miss Coben, Donald Y. Campbell, Rhodes Borden, Harry Miller, H. B. Houghton, A. S. Macdonald, S. B. McKee and James McKee. Miss Kate Clement returned from her visit to Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Alexander in time to attend the dinner.

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. J. H. T. Watkinson gave a tea at her residence, 465 Merrimac street, in honor of Miss Bowers, who is spending the winter months with her. Miss Bowers claims the effete East as her home and it was to introduce her guest into society in this city that the tea was given. The hours from three to six were spent in pleasant conversation, and the affair was strictly informal. The guests present numbered about thirty and consisted wholly of young ladies and gentlemen.

Many people attended the reception of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Everts, on Thursday evening. Mrs. Everts is a charmingly gracious hostess.

After Lent several private parties will be given before the summer exodus of all society save THE MEDDLER.
